President Says Contacts Go On Despite Possible 'Ploy' by Hanoi

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has told diplomats whether North Vietnam wanted the United States in frequent touch with North Vietnam on the subject of choosing the site for a Vietnam peace talk.

Johnson said he and his advisers do not know whether the North Vietnamese leadership is seriously interested in solving the site problem or whether it has some other purpose in mind. Some officials have suggested Hanoi may be mainly interested in making propaganda.

Johnson discussed the situation as he sees it in an informal talk with diplomats and others at a White House reception Tuesday night. Various versions of what he said were reported.

"We are in contact with them," he was quoted as having said. "We spoke to them yesterday and today, and we will be in contact with them tomorrow. We don't know whether it's a ploy or not."

Working Persistently
Diplomatic authorities confirmed today the sense of what Johnson was saying, without stating his views in precise and quotable language.

The President's points, they said, are that the U.S. government is working persistently to try to solve the site problem. Johnson and his advisers do not know whether the North Vietnamese are serious about solving it, but they will find out. Diplomatic contacts are reported to have occurred in Vientiane, Laos, where U.S. Ambassador William Sullivan has been in direct touch with North Vietnamese Ambassador Le Van Hien repeatedly since early this month.

Their reported first exchange in the present series was April 4 when Sullivan, on instructions from Johnson, officially notified the North Vietnamese envoy the United States was prepared to "establish contact" on the problem of peace talks as North Vietnam said publicly April 3 it was willing to do.

The exchange began after Johnson limited the bombing of North Vietnam on March 31 and called for talks on ending the war.

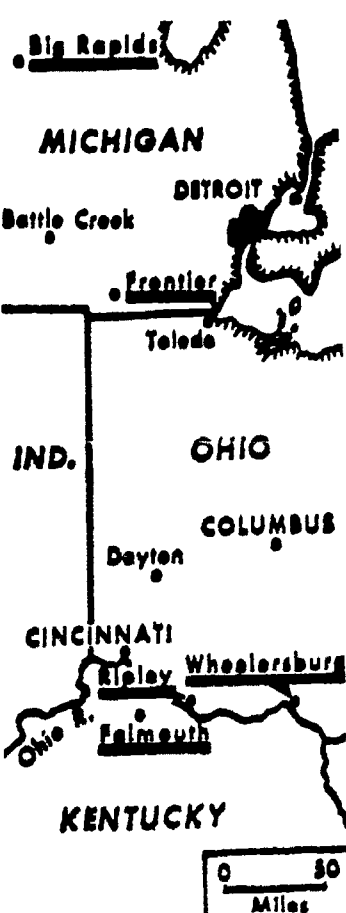

The Washington Post, in its account, quoted Johnson as saying:

"We talked today and we talked yesterday. There are some who think that if they were serious they wouldn't have suggested Warsaw" as a site for the initial peace talks.

The Post, in reporting Johnson said he wasn't positive whether North Vietnam wanted talks, said the President then shrugged "as if he didn't know whether or not to agree."

The North Vietnamese Communist Party newspaper Nhan Dan, meanwhile, accused the United States Tuesday of "perfidious maneuvers" and said the Vietnamese people "demand that the U.S. government stop delaying preliminary contacts and accept either Phnom Penh or Warsaw as the venue."

Nevertheless, talk of Paris as a site for the talks has been increasing, and South Vietnamese Foreign Minister Tran Van Do said in Saigon today his government had no objection to the French capital.

13 Die, 700 Homeless In Midwest Tornadoes

Kentucky, Ohio Hit Hardest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tornadoes ripped into small communities in Kentucky and Ohio Tuesday, spreading death and destruction. Twisters also struck two towns in Michigan, causing damage but no deaths.

The count of dead rose to 13. Included were 4 in Falmouth, Ky., 1 near Augusta, Ky., 6 in Wheelersburg, Ohio, 1 in Clermont County, Ohio, and 1 in Brown County, Ohio.

The storms injured 207 persons, left more than 700 homeless and wrought damage in excess of $2 million.

"We were going through a taste of death right there," reported Henry Dance, 77, a Falmouth resident who was at home with his wife.

"It sounded like a clap of thunder," he said, "and then the roof began to fall. Holding on to each other, we fell down by the divan and part of the floor fell on us. The Lord saved us, that's all."

Brunt of Storm

A residential area of about six square blocks bore the brunt of the storm in Falmouth, a community of 2,600 in northern Kentucky. The business section of town was largely spared.

The twister, swirling out of thunderstorms Tuesday, struck at midafternoon at points near the Ohio River.

"We saw the funnel coming," reported Mrs. William Clinger, who works at the Falmouth Outlook, a weekly newspaper. "All of us ran into the basement. There was a horrible noise, like a train coming. Then it hit."

Mrs. Lewis Mockbee, 72, said, "It just began to blow, then the hail came, breaking out windows. I got down into a corner and prayed." The Mockbee home was spared, but a garage was destroyed.

Heavy Damage

Falmouth Mayor Max Goldberg said about one-third of the small farming community was destroyed. He said property damage would run between $2 and $3 million.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn of Kentucky rushed to the scene of devastation. He said quick preliminary estimates show that at least 75 homes "were damaged to the extent of $15,000 each."

The victims were an elderly couple and two small children. More than 100 injuries were reported. At one point Pendleton County Hospital reported it handled so many patients that officials were not even sure of how many had been admitted.

Another Twister

To the east some 125 miles, Wheelersburg reeled under the vicious eye of another twister. The count of injured stood at 75 while rescue workers still crawled over the wreckage of more than 40 homes searching for other victims.

"There's no estimate yet on the number of houses destroyed," said Deputy Sheriff Jesse Foster. "Wreckage is scattered all over. It's really a mess."

The tornado cut a swath through several subdivisions, leveling or damaging houses and business places in its path. Wheelersburg is an unincorporated community eight miles east of Portsmouth, Ohio.

Gov. James A. Rhodes ordered 100 National Guard troops to the area and then flew himself to inspect the damage. Leroy Collier, a real estate agent who witnessed the twister at work, said he saw it coming, and ducked into his car and got down on the floor. "When I looked out the car windows, I

Hanoi Claims Credit for Downing

Latest Loss Hasn't Forced U.S. To Halt Strikes by 5 Other F111s

SAIGON (AP) — No F111s flew against North Vietnam Tuesday, but a U.S. military spokesman in Saigon implied to night that the $6 million, swing-wing fighter-bomber has not been grounded again after its third crash in a month.

"There has been no change in the status of the F111," said the spokesman after a day of rumors and inquiries. He would not elaborate.

In Washington, the Pentagon refused to comment and said any information would have to come from Saigon.

There was no indication whether any F111s were used in the raids on North Vietnam today. Normally reports on the day's air operations would not be given until Thursday.

The third F111 lost on Vietnam duty disappeared Monday night, and North Vietnam claimed today its forces had shot down the plane over Quang Binh, the province just north of the demilitarized zone. It said nothing about the two crewmen.

The U.S. Command said the plane was believed to have crashed in Thailand, but it gave no further information on the plane or the fate of the crew.

The North Vietnamese also claimed to have shot down the F111s which were lost March 28 and March 30. U.S. officers believe the first plane crashed in a remote area of Thailand or Laos, and the wreckage of the second was found in northern Thailand. Its crash was attributed to a capsule of sealing material, mistakenly left by mechanics, that became lodged in the flight controls. The two crew members bailed out and were rescued.

Six F111s arrived at Ta Khli air base in Thailand March 17 and went into combat March 25. They were grounded for 11 days after the crash March 30 and have flown combat missions on about 17 days in all. Two additional F111s were brought in to replace the first two losses.

Other Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps planes were out in force Tuesday to continue bombing highways, barges, gun positions and other targets in the section of North Vietnam left open to air raids by President Johnson's curtailment orders.

U.S. pilots flew 111 missions south of the 19th parallel—44 less than the day before—with the deepest penetration a strike against a railroad spur 168 miles north of the demilitarized zone. The panhandle area was covered by clouds which prevented damage assessments.

In South Vietnam, the B52s kept up their round-the-clock campaign against the A Shau Valley, an enemy stronghold for two years where intelligence reports indicate preparations may be under way for another big drive.

The eight-engine Stratoforresses flew six missions Tuesday and today against the valley, near the Laotian border, and also attacked targets 25 miles northwest of Kontum City in the central highlands.

Comparatively little ground activity was reported.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported a sharp fight near Quang Tri, capital of South Vietnam's northernmost province. Government troops reported killing 50 enemy soldiers and said three South Vietnamese were killed and 38 wounded.

Five miles southwest of Khe Sanh, in Quang Tri's northwest corner, U.S. air cavalrymen clashed with North Vietnamese in bunkers and reported killing 11 of the enemy. One American was wounded.

Government troops fighting in the Mekong Delta 74 miles southwest of Saigon said they killed 17 Viet Cong soldiers and freed 38 civilians who were being held by the Viet Cong.

Treaty Enters U.N. Assembly

Opposition to Nuclear Ban Discounted by U.S., Russia

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union were reported confident today that they would overcome opposition and win the U.N. General Assembly's approval of the proposed treaty banning the further spread of nuclear weapons.

This word came from informed quarters as the 123-nation assembly gathered to resume its 22nd session, which was suspended last December to permit final negotiations on the treaty by the 17-nation Disarmament Committee in Geneva.

Debate Starts Friday
Debate on the so-called non-proliferation treaty is expected to begin in the assembly's main political committee Friday after work of the session is organized and Mauritius, a former British territory in the Indian Ocean, has been admitted to U.N. membership.

Also on the agenda for the session is the Middle East situation and South Africa's refusal to transfer the administration of Southwest Africa to the United Nations.

Soviet and American sources discounted speculation that opponents of the U.S.-Soviet draft treaty on nonproliferation might be able to sidetrack action until the fall session of the assembly. It was agreed that this idea had substantial backing, but neither of the big powers seemed in the mood for yielding.

Moscow and Washington also appeared to be firm against any major amendments to the draft they worked out privately.

The outlook was that the draft probably would be approved by the assembly, after a long debate, and that by the end of May it would be submitted to governments for ratification. The United States, the Soviet Union and Britain have agreed that if the treaty is adopted they will give guarantees to non-nuclear countries that they will come to their aid in the event of a nuclear attack.

The main reservations have been advanced by West Germany, Japan, Italy, Romania, Brazil and India. They object partly because they are not sure they will be able to get nuclear materials needed for peaceful uses and because Red China and France will not sign the treaty.

A recent article in the Soviet newspaper Izvestia suggested that some of the objections were intended to torpedo the treaty by trying to delay action at this assembly session. The article said the "maneuvers were not successful."

U. S.-Soviet Cooperation

The United States was understood to be anxious to have the treaty approved at this time because it could be cited as an example of U.S.-Soviet cooperation during the Vietnam war. It might also be viewed as an encouragement to further cooperation on disarmament.

U.N. observers believe the Soviet attitude is inspired partly by realization that many of the potential nuclear powers are neighbors who might eventually offer a threat to Soviet security. The proposed treaty would bar all non-nuclear countries from acquiring nuclear weapons.

Three to Orbit Earth This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration plans to rocket three astronauts into earth orbit aboard the next Saturn 5, later this year, and thus save several months and $250 million in the program to place men on the moon.

Informed sources said that after a thorough review of the second, launching of an unmanned Saturn 5 last April 4, NASA officials decided difficultly developed then could be remedied through ground tests.

The crew for the first complete Apollo flight consists of James A. McDivitt, commander; David R. Scott, command module pilot, and Russell Schweickert, lunar module pilot. The flight is planned for the last quarter of the year.

After the April 4 mission, in which two of five engines of the second stage shut down prematurely and the third-stage engine failed to restart in orbit, there were fears that another unmanned test would be required. That almost certainly would have delayed achievement of a lunar landing from mid-1969 to the end of that year or later.

15-Year-Old Girl to Teach At Michigan State in Fall

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Edith Stern, who entered college at the age of 13, has been accepted as a math instructor at Michigan State University. She now is 15.

The teen-ager, who has been called genius since the age of two, chose a graduate assistantship in the math department at Michigan State over offers from "six or seven other very fine schools," said her father, Aaron.

Edith graduates from Florida Atlantic University in August, celebrates her 16th birthday a few days later and then heads for East Lansing in September.

Works on Ph.D.

According to the university, Edith will deliver two-hour algebra lectures twice a week, act as consultant to students and grade tests in addition to taking three graduate courses. "I hope I'll be able to finish up on my Ph.D. in two years," she said.

"This is a gigantic step she is taking," her father said. "Michigan State has one other genius who has attracted just as much attention as she has

and he will undoubtedly be a new challenge to her."

"It will be interesting; it'll certainly be different," Edith said when she learned that one of her classmates will be Michael G. Ross, 14-year-old senior in advance mathematics. G. Ross was admitted to Michigan State at 12.

The Brooklyn-born coed's IQ has been tested at anywhere from 154 to 201 depending on the test used. Dr. John Hocking, director of graduate admissions at MSU who approved the admission of both young scholars, said G. Ross' intelligence has defied the best attempts to measure it.

The last time Edith attended class with children her own age was in third grade and her father said college "represented emancipation for her."

Edith learned to read at two, played chess at four, dropped out of junior high school at 12 and was admitted to college at 13.

Mostly Normal
Except during discussions of the fall of the Roman Empire, Freud or trigonometry, Edith appears to be a normal, teenage girl.

Despite the phenomenal speed at which Edith has progressed through life, she says, "I've missed nothing I comprehend more than most. I suppose, but I'm not sure how much extra I have. I don't know what it would feel like to be in college at any other age. This is normal for me."

Workmen Strike in London Protesting Negro Immigration

Dock Walkout Backs Conservative Fired for Favoring Discrimination

By LAWRENCE MALKIN
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Hundreds of London dock workers struck again today to demand restrictions on the immigration of colored workers to Britain.

The walkouts were in support of Conservative politician Enoch Powell, who was purged from the opposition party's high command for opposing the labor government's proposed new anti-discrimination law with an inflammatory speech.

Thirteen ships were left idle when about 550 longshoremen refused to go to work at one group of docks. Another 150 walked off the docks at Deptford in a 24-hour strike.

In London's Smithfield Market workers put more than 3,000 signatures on a petition supporting Powell, and 600 men said they would march to the House of Commons to present it.

Passage Likely

More than 1,500 longshoremen marched to Commons Tuesday to express support for Powell when the house began debate on the bill. But unless the protests from the workers gave Prime Minister Harold Wilson cold feet, the government's bill to ban racial discrimination in jobs and housing appears certain to become law this summer.

Commons approved the bill in principle Tuesday night, voting 313-209, and sent it to committee for additional study before it is presented for final passage. Twenty-five Conservatives abstained rather than follow the party line and vote against the bill. It was another setback for the party's leader, Edward Heath.

Heath fired Powell from the Conservative shadow Cabinet, calling the speech "racist in tone and liable to exacerbate racial tensions." Powell, a leader of the opposition party's right wing, had called for a ban on further colored immigration and payments to induce the one million nonwhites in Britain to return to their native lands. He called colored immigration "a match on gunpowder" and said "rivers of blood will eventually flow."

Powell listened from a back bench seat in Commons Tuesday as Conservative leaders rebuked him in their speeches. But workers in half a dozen plants walked off their jobs in token support of Powell, and more than 1,500 London longshoremen marched to the House of Commons to shout their agreement with him.

Along with criticism of Powell, his party's spokesman on race relations, Quintin Hogg said the party opposed the anti-discrimination bill because it felt it was too sweeping. He said the Tories want more exemptions for "the small man."

The government countered with an offer to set up an all-party committee to study the working of the legislation after it becomes law and recommend changes.

The bill would bar discrimination in jobs, housing, public places, businesses, schools and colleges. It also would outlaw discrimination in the granting of loans and the selling of insurance.

Trudeau Calls Parliamentary Vote in Canada

New Prime Minister Feels Popularity Will Give Party Edge

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada's swinging new prime minister, Pierre Elliott Trudeau, betting that his charisma will win his Liberal Party a majority, has called a general election after four days in office.

Parliament returned from a 25-day recess Tuesday to hear Trudeau tell it, it was dissolved and elections would be held June 25. The House of Commons responded with prolonged applause.

Trudeau told newsmen there is an atmosphere of uncertainty in Canada that an early election would dispel. He said he and his Liberal party are seeking the support of the people for a "comprehensive program of reform."

The Liberals have been the largest party in Commons since they won the April, 1963, general election, but they have never had a majority and have been forced to depend on the support of the smaller parties. At dissolution, the Liberals held 128 of the 265 seats in Commons.

Personal Publicity

Trudeau, a dynamic 48-year-old bachelor whose appeal to younger voters has been compared to the late President Kennedy's, apparently hopes to capitalize on the considerable publicity he has generated since the Liberals chose him to succeed Lester B. Pearson on April 6. By law he did not have to call an election until 1970.

In choosing Trudeau, the Liberal convention passed over a field of experienced and familiar political figures and picked a handsome French-Canadian better known for his miniskirted girl friends and sports cars than for political activities.

Trudeau had been in the party only since 1965 and in the Cabinet, as justice minister, less than a year. Previously he was a professor of constitutional law and a writer on social and political matters.

Opposition leader Robert Stanfield, 54, whose Conservatives had 94 seats in the outgoing House of Commons, also is a newcomer to Ottawa. After 20 years in the Conservative leadership in Nova Scotia, he was provincial premier when elected last September to succeed John Diefenbaker as the party's national leader.

McCarthy Easily Victorious Over Write-in Opposition

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — was unopposed for the GOP senatorial nomination.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, alone on Pennsylvania's presidential preference ballot, was an easy winner in Tuesday's primary over Democratic rivals whose names had to be written in by the voters.

Only about one-third of the 5.2 million eligible voters went to the polls.

The presidential vote is not binding on party convention delegates.

McCarthy racked up an 8-1 edge over his chief announced rival, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York, and he was 10 to 1 over Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who has not announced his candidacy.

In write-ins on the Republican side, Richard M. Nixon forged nearly 5 to 1 ahead of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. Only McCarthy and Kennedy did any active campaigning for the primary.

Democratic Votes

With 7,591 precincts of 9,460 reported McCarthy had 325,907, Kennedy 41,647, Humphrey 32,030, President Johnson 12,971 and ex-Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama 10,315.

It is expected McCarthy will get around 350,000, or about 40 per cent of the Democratic turnout estimated at near 900,000.

On the Republican side, with 7,291 precincts counted, Nixon had 104,658, Rockefeller 20,975, Gov. Ronald Reagan of California 4,552, Wallace 5,101, Johnson 1,173 and Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania 792.

There was only one major statewide contest, for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination. Incumbent Joseph S. Clark turned back John Dent, a western Pennsylvania congressman who said he entered the race in support of Johnson policies on Vietnam, which Clark opposes.

Might Lose Funds

Saigon Police Chief Won't Listen to U.S.

By BARRY KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's controversial national police chief has told his chief American adviser that withholding of American funds and equipment won't force him to fire police officials the Americans consider corrupt or inefficient.

Brig. Gen. Nguyen Ngoc Loan wrote U.S. adviser John Manopolis he would pay no attention to U.S. reports on police personnel "when they threaten to withdraw support as a means of applying pressure."

"If your division sees fit to cut aid to any police unit as a means of applying pressure, please feel free to do so," Loan said in the letter, written April 1.

Manopolis is on leave outside Vietnam and was not available for comment.

Advisers' Report

Manopolis' office had forwarded to Loan several reports from U.S. advisers in the field with evidence of corruption or gross incompetence on the part of police officials, sources said.

One of the reports concerned Lu Van Vinh, police chief of Vung Tau, a seaside resort southeast of Saigon and a major recreation area for U.S. soldiers.

The mayor of Vung Tau was recently removed for corruption, and the U.S. report sent Loan charged that Vinh had condoned kickbacks, bribes, illegal licensing, gambling and prostitution. The report asked that he be removed. When Vinh was not fired, his U.S. adviser was called back to Saigon, and all financial and material aid to the Vung Tu police was cut off.

Field Force

Aid also has been cut off from a police field force company in Bien Hoa Province, and is about to be withdrawn from a field force company in Kien Hoa Province.

Loan in his letter said the Vietnamese people and their government are grateful for American support and "ready to accept any constructive criticism or reports about suspicious acts by our personnel."

"Our office," he continued, "is determined not to tolerate any transgressions and is ready to apply strong disciplinary measures."

"However, before punishing any personnel, we must double-check and substantiate any allegations so as to maintain strong discipline and avoid any future complaint."

still life.

Work Against Disorder From Bottom Up, Eisenhower Says

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower urges broad citizen participation at the local level in anti-riot and job training programs as a means of preventing further outbreaks of disorder in the nation's cities.

In a copyright article to appear April 25 in the May Reader's Digest, Eisenhower called for a "universal rally of the people at the local level" to attack the problem "intelligently from the bottom, not profligately from the top."

"The problem of our shameful city slums and the racial unrest which they spawn, the savage riots which have wrecked whole sections of our cities and disgraced our nation in the eyes of the world," is the most critical to face the nation in this century, he said.

Today rioting "seems to have become a tolerated instrument of protest," Eisenhower said. "Millions of our ghetto citizens seem to believe that in no other way can their plight be brought to public attention."

Remedial Pressures

To deal with the problem the former president prescribed a two-part solution: first, enforcement of the law; second, to "apply strong, imaginative remedial measures" to the conditions which breed disillusionment and despair.

He emphasized that "help for the underprivileged, whether it be private, federal, state or municipal, must be matched by their own efforts at self-help." Leadership must be found within the slum community, he said.

To stop riots, Eisenhower said "we obviously must have more and better-paid police." He urged recruiting and training more police "from the same ethnic groups that inhabit the precincts where they will be stationed."

He also suggested that for each active-duty policeman, a cadre of 10 civilians be formed from "among the many law-abiding, hard-working individuals of our depressed areas" to be trained "for the prevention and quelling of riots."

To attack the slums he urged a "simultaneous program for betterment on three equally urgent fronts: Decent housing; sound education and practical training for both children and adults; and gainful employment for all."

He said "we must reduce the density of population by encouraging large numbers of people to relocate . . . with their own schools, shops, clinics and hospitals, light industry and recreational facilities."

Create Cities

He suggested that such new communities could be located in space now occupied by abandoned military camps or airfields or other neglected "open" areas.

Eisenhower proposed training persons for the "chronically undermanned" service industries such as restaurants and hotels, laundries, gardening businesses, household-repair establishments.

The former president did not estimate what his proposals would cost. He said financing would have to come largely from the federal government but "the impetus, the planning and the doing" must be at the community level.

Mailing Advice For Credit Cards

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, D-N.Y., wants the Post Office Department to require that credit cards requested by consumers be sent only by registered mail.

He also asked, in a letter to the department, that it prohibit the mailing of unsolicited credit cards—some now sent by oil companies in envelopes marked "credit card enclosed."

"Little imagination is required to envision the possibilities of theft anywhere along the mail-handling process," Ottinger wrote, "when (for example) the addressees discover they have underwritten the cost of one or more transcontinental trips on the strength of cards whose existence they had no reason to suspect."

The Recent Debate in the People's Forum

The assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., and the events in this country which followed, provoked an immediate outpouring of letters to the People's Forum of this newspaper. Over a period of two weeks we published a large number of the letters we received which reflect a variety of opinions on the subject.

The letters continue to pour in, but we do not feel any purpose is served by repeating the same points of view which have been previously expressed.

Possibly some purpose would be served, however, by a statement of the views of the editors of The Post-Crescent on the subject.

We believe that the times demand that every citizen of the United States reassess his personal thinking on the critical problem of the slum areas of our major cities. We believe that this is primarily an economic problem, more so than a racial one.

In the last decade there has been a tremendous migration of poor tenant farmers, largely from the South, into the large cities, largely in the North. These people came to the cities seeking opportunity and a better life. But they came without job skills, with little education, and with no knowledge of what life is like in the slums. Their hopes have turned to despair.

Until recently the problems of the slums seemed quite remote to us living in these all-white, peaceful cities of this area. But the problem is no longer remote. It is our problem just as much as it is Milwaukee's or Chicago's problem. It is Wisconsin's problem, and we are citizens of Wisconsin. It is a United States problem, and we are citizens of the United States.

The scope of the effort it is going to take to make a beginning toward solving this problem is going to demand sacrifices of each of us, as taxpayers at the very least, but hopefully also as citizens and as fellow human beings.

Hearing to End All Hearings

With the City of Appleton making sincere efforts to expedite the start of its $4.3 million water expansion program, it is hoped the recent informational hearing conducted by the Wisconsin Division of Natural Resources will be the hearing to end all hearings.

The proposal to provide Appleton with a new municipal water source was first talked about in 1958 and over the years has grown into a high priority item. The city is in urgent need of a more adequate and improved quality water supply and could have a serious health, welfare and safety problem on its hands by 1970 unless construction is commenced soon.

The four-hour hearing here last week — well represented by residents around Lake Winnebago who have been asking persistent questions about the city's plans for building an addition to the filtration plant, along with a pipeline to Lake Winnebago — represented an all-out airing of gripes, grumbles and explanations of what the city is planning to do.

Directly from the chief engineer of the U.S. Corps of Engineers at Chicago came the statement that Appleton's water use would not have a harmful effect on the level of Lake Winnebago. In fact, experts testified that when the time comes for the city to pump a maximum 45 million gallons a day from the lake within the next 15 to 20 years, it will still have little significance on the water level.

There appeared to be a free flow of information at the hearing conducted by Freeman Holmer of the state agency, with city officials, consultants and representatives of nationally known engineering firms answering all questions put to them, many based on supposition and some of a caustic nature.

But generally speaking, fears of most who feared the lake project on the basis of suspicions were allayed. Unfortunately, a few diehards with really no direct interest in the project and a constant source of consternation with their letter-writing and rumor-spreading, indicated they will press for another hearing from the Corps of Engineers.

Based on the record and facts in the case, any further hearing and delay in issuing the actual construction permit for the pipeline and intake is uncalled for. It would be doing a disservice to a progressive community which is making sincere efforts to advertise for bids and get construction started on the two-year project. There has already been too much second-guessing.

The Difficulties Over a Site for Talks

Hanoi's original suggestions for peace talk sites in either Phnom Penh, Cambodia, or Warsaw, Poland, rationally produced objections from the United States. But our own ten best list had the same weaknesses as far as Hanoi is concerned, which leads to the suspicion that United States authorities are little more interested than are the North Vietnamese in seeking talks as soon as possible.

Washington officials objected to the Cambodian and Polish sites because of difficulties which would face our representatives and those of some of our allies. We have no diplomatic relations with Cambodia and its government is antagonistic to the government of South Vietnam. Poland is obviously not a neutral country since it is Communist and not liberally so. While the United States probably could get permission for South Vietnamese officials to come to Warsaw and some officials have said that the other difficulties were not insurmountable, a truly neutral site would be better.

Secretary Rusk, in offering ten other sites, took the hard line that "it is time for a serious and responsive answer from Hanoi." But several of the countries proposed by the United States belong to NATO or SEATO, which hardly makes them appear neutral to the North Vietnamese. Others, like Japan or Indonesia, have taken hard lines against all Communists or have consistently backed the American role in Vietnam.

Since President Johnson has definitely changed his offer to go anywhere at anytime and meet with anyone to an "appropriate site" where our allies would be welcome, where there would be adequate communications, free access for news coverage by all nations and where neither side would feel at a psychological disadvantage, this back and forth exchange probably is just part of the bargaining. The most likely site, at this point in the discussions, would appear to be Paris and the fact that Secretary Rusk did not suggest it may have been an effort to encourage Hanoi to name it and thus gain a little face.

It is also probable that since President Johnson's March 31 speech, both sides have been reviewing their military situations. Secretary Rusk has somewhat petulantly charged that Hanoi has not slowed down its military actions although it is difficult to understand how Khe Sanh was so easily removed from siege without Communist withdrawals unless our military intelligence had been previously wrong about the number of North Vietnamese troops dug in around that area. Since we still do not know the Communist aims in the Tet offensive, we can't know whether they succeeded or failed. Ho Chi Minh may still feel that his advantage lies in waiting to talk until after the American presidential election in November. But with the offer from President Johnson, he must at least give the impression of a willingness to negotiate.

The United States gained widespread public approval with the restraint in the bombing in the North. The current hemming and hawing may be necessary. But if it goes on too long with no more sign of real intent to find a site on the part of the United States than in Hanoi, our integrity will come under deep and disturbing doubt.

Wisconsin has again rendered her verdict in favor of universal freedom

Although we have not yet received the official report of Tuesday's election, yet enough has been given to show that Judges Dixon and Paine have been elected by an overwhelming majority.

The Democrats have used every means in their power to carry this election, but they have signally failed. We have always had abiding faith in the good Republicans of Wisconsin.

The salvation of our state depends upon them amid the clashing of arms and in the balmy days of peace. They have acquitted themselves with valor in both cases. Wisconsin is not what she professes to be, a bright and shining star in the constellation of liberty's zenith.

Taylor Writes

Gross National Product Increases But It's All Due to Inflation

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

Down goes our gold again — down and out. Up go our imports, up and up — compounding the Great Society's vicious circle. Down goes the value of our savings. Up goes the cost of living. This is the payoff to our propagandized people.

On April 16 President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers gloated over a first-quarter increase in the gross national product. But prices are rising at the rate of four per cent a year. And prices, not Washington's statistics, are the payoff.

Moreover, taxes are a part of prices. In fact, taxes are the largest item in our cost of living. What we have left, not theoretical pay, is the payoff. On March 28 the respected Tax Foundation, Inc., an independent research organization, revealed that total federal, state and local tax collections in fiscal 1968 will exceed $3,350 for each American family. Meanwhile, it takes all the federal taxes of all the people who earn $6,000 a year or less to pay the interest on the money the government already has borrowed.

IT'S NEVER ENOUGH

Yet no matter how much we send it's never enough. In spite of the colossal tax take, the Great Society ran up a $20 billion deficit last year, again financed by money we haven't got. And on March 12 the Administration confirmed that it would cost something more than $20,000 a man, or $4 billion for 200,000 men, to increase the American troops in Vietnam.

The incredible billions on billions that official mistakes, boobland decisions at home and abroad and the coverups have cost us are the biggest single factor in the tax load. These, not Washington's propaganda, are the payoff.

As one result, the wage increases are misleading. When wages and prices leapfrog each other as they do today, no one winds up ahead — except foreign workmen.

The six European Common Market countries had a $860 million trade surplus in 1967 — the highest in the community's 10-year history. Our exports, at $31 billion in 1967, were up 5½ per cent over 1966. But imports at $26.6 billion were up four per cent. This $4.4 billion trade surplus was far below the $5.2 billion in 1965 and $6.9 billion in 1964. The gap's trend is dramatically down, and the gap is the payoff.

Fiat workers, for example, earn the equivalent of about $160 a month, a high wage, in Italy. In addition, fringe benefits raise their pay to about $214 a month. An American auto workers makes this in six or seven days.

The European and Japanese cost advantage is so enormous, and foreigners have so heavily protected their own home markets, that our 1967 car imports were more than a half-million in excess of our car exports.

Our cost imbalance is similar in chemicals, lead, zinc, textiles, electronic and electrical equipment, sheet glass, wire, clothing and footwear, china, meat, dairy products, cameras, leather products, shipbuilding, shipping, etc.

BALLOONING DEBT

Consumer spending? When Washington gloats that it accounted for $16 billion of a $20 billion increase in the first-quarter gross national product this is likewise misleading. Behind the scenes, the balloon that is really going up is the debt balloon.

More credit cards will be mailed out this year (150 million) than there are adults in our population. Even among banks, one out of seven already offers credit cards — "Come and get it" — in spite of the bite that credit already puts on people's incomes.

The National Foundation of Consumer Credit finds that household indebtedness has zoomed from $35 billion in 1948 to $387 billion today. But we're earning more, Washington claims. Hokus, hokoy, hokum.

Debt is now the largest part of the householders' financial structure. Debt as a percentage of after-tax income has zoomed from 22 per cent in 1948 to a nearly incredible 70 per cent now.

From every after-tax dollar that the average American householder earns 71 cents is committed for debts already contracted and the interest on them. At the same time, the situation encounters many interest rates that are the highest in 100 years. Meanwhile, personal bankruptcies are outstripping business bankruptcies almost 10 to one.

The contrived statistics pumped out by the Washington Robin Hoods of the Red Ink glorify the surface facts and gaily pass over the truth underneath. But would the public know it?

Wisconsin Report

Political Parties Move Toward Middle To Win Independents

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — A recent survey of public opinion has demonstrated once more a fact of American politics, and more particularly perhaps, the politics of Wisconsin, that is recognized by most of the professionals in the political parties and ought to be pasted in the hats of their apprentices.

It is the fact that Americans are less and less committed to any one political party and that, as a consequence, the polarization of political philosophy and objectives that is sometimes assumed, or claimed is more nominal than real.

It follows, therefore, that in any typical situation one party or the other can win, according to the impact it has made upon the indifferently committed or the uncommitted in the electorate who are growing in numbers.

The word "independent" has become more and more familiar as individuals describe their own political orientation. Sometimes, indeed, it sounds somewhat pretentious. Sometimes it is a kind of mask to conceal the person's real feelings, in prudent consideration of business or professional connections, or associations in any organized group, from medical doctors to craft unionists. Yet, it is apparent to any reasonably attentive student that the "independent" holds the balance of power, not only in the country, but especially in Wisconsin.

RESULTS * * * CHANGE

The consequences can be seen in Wisconsin, where the parties have gradually and without direct acknowledgment, moved toward the middle and probably have fewer distinctive positions and objectives and ideological commitments than ever before in the memory of their most senior representatives. Democrats have the liberal vote. Republicans have the conservative vote. Their problem is to compete for the middle ground voter who controls the outcome.

To put it another way, Gov. Warren Knowles' record of the last four years, considered quite abstractly, could not easily have been conceived by a leader of his party a generation earlier. Dan Hoan, the fire-eating Socialist in the old Milwaukee days who was the Democratic nominee for governor as recently as 1946, would have looked upon some of the contemporary leaders of the Wisconsin Democrats as fuddy-duddies.

WISCONSIN * * * EXAMPLE

If an accurate census could be taken, it is likely that there are more of the adult residents of Wisconsin, as in the country, who would identify themselves as Democrats than those who would label themselves as Republicans.

But this state is now ruled by Republicans, has been ruled by Republicans during most of the last couple of decades, and, in the appraisal of most sideline observers, is likely to continue under Republican control next year.

The explanation is that the great middle mass of the electorate holds the balance of power in its hands, and that it is growing in numbers and awareness of its strength. The explanations are numerous, the increasing educational attainment of the electorate, the mobility of the population, and the moving of the political parties themselves to the middle of the political spectrum, in recognition of the lessening partisan allegiance of the typical voters to whom they direct their appeals.

There are exceptions, of course, and surely they will be noted by those whose political training was in earlier times. There are Milwaukee wards where organized labor is predominant and where the Democratic majorities are staggering in percentages in each succeeding election. There are rural districts in the state where the Republicans are equally strong and where it sometimes seems, as one friend puts it, that the typical voter imagines he can still see the smoke of the Union army camp fires of long ago when the GOP was born. But automatic partisan allegiance is steadily eroding, the Catholic favoring the Democrat and the Protestant favoring the Republican, for example.

WARREN KNOWLES' RECORD
The consequences can be seen in Wisconsin, where the parties have gradually and without direct acknowledgment, moved toward the middle and probably have fewer distinctive positions and objectives and ideological commitments than ever before in the memory of their most senior representatives. Democrats have the liberal vote. Republicans have the conservative vote. Their problem is to compete for the middle ground voter who controls the outcome.

To put it another way, Gov. Warren Knowles' record of the last four years, considered quite abstractly, could not easily have been conceived by a leader of his party a generation earlier. Dan Hoan, the fire-eating Socialist in the old Milwaukee days who was the Democratic nominee for governor as recently as 1946, would have looked upon some of the contemporary leaders of the Wisconsin Democrats as fuddy-duddies.

Twice lately, Wisconsin has had Democratic administrations. But they did not attempt to negate the work of their Republican predecessors. Nor did the Republicans in power at the Capitol during the last four years erase any of the important acts of the Democrats they displaced.

Strictly Personal

Shambles Not Mess, Involves Bloodiness

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

When you use various expressions, do you know that

"To the nth degree" doesn't mean to the farthest, or largest, or indefinite number?

"a shambles" is not just any kind of mess, but one that involves bloodiness?

"a dilemma" is not a mere difficulty or problem, but a set of two choices, each of which is equally unsatisfactory?

"to enhance" means to ake or become larger, and thus it is absurd to write an ad about "a girdle that enhances your figure?"

a French "gendarme" is not the equivalent of a London bobby or a New York cop, and indeed is not a Parisian policeman at all?

a "blueprint" is not just a plan or scheme, but (in the engineering industries, which it comes from) it is the final stage of paper design a "bottleneck" is something that impedes the flow because it is too small, thus, to speak of "a bigger bottleneck" is a contradiction in terms

a "casualty" is an accident, and not the person to whom it happens, even though the military prefer to ignore this fact?

"the optimum" is not the best, or the fastest, or the most anything, but it is the product of conflicting forces; as the optimum speed of a car is not the fastest it can go, but its most satisfactory speed in traffic, which will result in the least gas consumption and the least wear and tear, and yet arriving as quickly as possible?

"the protagonist" is not the opposite of the antagonist, with the one being for and the other being against; a protagonist is a leading character, who can be for, against, or indifferent.

"begging the question" does not mean evading a straight answer; it is, rather, a precise term in logic, which means assuming the very proposition which is in need of proof?

"a leading question" is not one framed to trap or embarrass the person questioned; instead, it is one designed to help him give the answer wanted by the questioner — which is why a lawyer cannot ask such a question of his own witness?

"the devil's advocate" is not a tempter of the good, or a whitewasher of the bad, but a prosecutor who is assigned to find evidence against the canonization of a candidate for sainthood?

"coming to fruition" does not mean becoming fruitful or maturing, but the enjoyment that comes from attainment or possession of a goal?

Steal Chapter Of State History

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — A chapter in New Mexico's history recently was reported missing by Florence Hawley Ellis to police.

The anthropology professor at the University of New Mexico told police someone took a chapter of her manuscript on New Mexico and Southwestern archaeology from a car parked in front of her home.

The automobile belonged to Miss Marian Krebs, who was typing the manuscript. Prof. Ellis said the missing chapter was 50 pages in length. However, she said she has the original manuscript and the chapter only will need retyping.

$4 Million Pledged Toward Humphrey Campaign Costs

Businessmen Reported Back of Move to Stop Robert Kennedy

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A coalition of millionaire businessmen led by card-carrying members of Lyndon B. Johnson's $1,000-a-head President's Club plans to raise a minimum $4 million kitty for Vice President Hubert Humphrey's Presidential bid.

Evans

Novak

The $4 million target will undoubtedly reach far higher before the Democratic convention in Chicago next August. But the remarkable fact is that, for the first time in his long political career, poor boy Hubert Humphrey is guaranteed virtually unlimited financing. His threadbare primary election campaign of 1960 against John F. Kennedy will not be repeated.

The major factor behind this sudden beneficence of big money on behalf of the vice president, which may include such prominent Republicans as Henry Ford, Jr., and U. S. Steel's Roger Blough, is the absolute determination to stop Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's drive for the Presidency.

"Hubert's been promised the last farthing in one of Manhattan's largest fortunes to stop Bobby," a New York financier with impeccable Republican credentials told us.

The root of this intense desire to stop Kennedy is fear and distrust of the senator in the business community not felt about any major party politician since New Deal days. Humphrey, no longer regarded by business as the ADA bomb-thrower of years past, is the logical Democratic alternative.

Wanted Humphrey

The story begins on the evening of April 2, when some 250 well-heeled businessmen, many of them advertisers in Look Magazine, dined in Manhattan's Waldorf - Astoria as guests of publisher Gardner (Mike) Cowles' annual off-the-record dinner party. Featured speaker was Humphrey, who the past three years often faced these same men in private meetings to explain Johnson administration policies.

On that evening Humphrey had far from decided to run. He was uncertain and uneasy about his future. President Johnson's no-second-term announcement had come only two days earlier. But in private huddles around the room, Humphrey learned that many of the businessmen present wanted him to run and were willing to stake him to the race.

Cowles himself, in introducing Humphrey for his off-the-record talk, said he regarded Humphrey as the best qualified politician in the country to be president. The affinity between Humphrey and Cowles' other dinner guests, one participant told us, was the same as though the party had been given for labor leaders — Humphrey's patrons in politics — instead of business moguls.

Afterwards, Humphrey and several money-men, including Sidney J. Weinberg, the Wall Street financier and onetime Republican kingmaker, discussed the campaign and how to finance it until 2 a.m. in an upstairs suite.

The events that evening confirmed the judgment of Humphrey advisers that he must run for the nomination. Humphrey himself, who had been brooding over the President's sudden withdrawal, reached his final decision to run (he'll announce on Saturday here in Washington with political supporters coming in from all over the country) largely on the basis of pledges that came his way that night.

There were, as well, three other major factors: Kennedy's failure to start an unstoppable blitz immediately after Mr. Johnson's withdrawal; the all-out Humphrey endorsement by most labor unions; and the immediate evidence that Humphrey, despite his record as a civil rights militant, would be the candidate of the South and the Border states.

Above all, however, the vice president was promised a campaign bank account essential to running for president. Central to this new opulence for Humphrey is the prestigious Weinberg, who twice raised money for Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's presidential campaigns as treasurer of Citizens for Eisenhower but in 1964 played a key role in Mr. Johnson's national Independent Committee for Johnson-Humphrey. That role, assigned by Mr. Johnson, was to sell Humphrey to the business community.

Weinberg is an all-out Humphrey man today. Some money men, although opening up their purses for Humphrey, aren't. They frankly hope the Republicans will nominate Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. But with the odds long against a Rockefeller nomination, they are hedging by putting their financial resources at Humphrey's disposal in an effort to block Bobby Kennedy.

Wholesome Meat Act Obviously Necessary

BY SYLVIA PORTER

In one New York City meat butchering plant, federal inspectors recently found the ceilings of a meat cooler covered with black mold and fresh meat speckled with flaking paint. This plant has been the source of meat for top restaurants.

In another meat processing establishment, officials found meat machines coated with dried blood and rat poison powder sprinkled near meat containers.

In still another meat processing plant, the "sterilizer" for knives which had been dropped on the floor was found to be filled with cold, greasy water — with a dead cockroach floating on the surface.

And these conditions, mind you, exist in plants which have been inspected. Investigators touring uninspected plants in New York City have described them as "dirty, disgusting, disgraceful and dangerous" — less clean than dog food processing plants.

New York City cannot be the sole horrible illustration of why we now have a Wholesome Meat Act on our statute books which requires the 50 states to clamp on controls over intrastate meat slaughterers and processors.

Rather, the probability is that state and city inspectors the nation over will have to do a Herculean job of upgrading meat-handling establishments of all kinds before the Dec. 15, 1969 deadline — when Washington is slated to take over the job.

The job well may end up even bigger than most of us appreciate. As Neil Peck, former Assistant U.S. Attorney for the Southern District of New York, has pointed out, even in plants which are now federally inspected, drastic shortages of inspectors mean that sometimes only a small percentage of meat which is stamped with the federal seal of approval actually is inspected. Moreover, meat is sometimes inspected frozen, a state in which it is very difficult to detect certain types of contamination.

Major Target
A total of 15,000 meat processing plants and slaughterhouses in the U.S. — producing a full 15 per cent of our slaughtered meat and a full 25 per cent of our processed meat — were outside the federal inspection system before the new law. In canneries and 72,000 fishing vessels outside the system — a major target of this year's rash of bills in Congress to impose new standards on fish and poultry processing.

Our national meat bill tops $25 billion a year. The average American eats a total of 209 pounds of meat, poultry and fish annually.

"Clean meat" isn't someone else's affair. It affects your health, your sense of security, your pocketbook. It is the costliest item on your grocery list today.

And the crackdown on filth will cost you money. It's estimated that the new law will add $23.2 million in the fiscal year beginning July 1, to the $47.7 million a year the U.S. Department of Agriculture is spending now for meat inspection. This means that the average cost per U.S. citizen for meat inspection will rise from 24 cents to 35 cents a year.

Of course, the states also will have to increase their appropriations for meat inspection, and this will add more pennies to average consumer costs. As just one indication of how much the costs to states are likely to rise, New York State now has only 134 meat inspectors — although well over 1 billion pounds of meat are processed in New York State each year.

But you can't measure the return from clean meat in these picayune terms. Just writing about what I may have been eating — at home and in fine restaurants — makes me feel

Both Unofficial Candidates
Rockefeller, Humphrey
Get Different Results

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York are employing the same political tactic in delaying formal declarations of candidacy. But the effect on their presidential chances is notably different.
For Humphrey, the delay has

Army Halts
Release of Guard Report
Survey Followed
Criticism of Alleged Bias

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has prevented publication of results of a $60,000 survey aimed at determining the attitudes of young Negroes toward military service and the National Guard.
National Guard officials, who commissioned the nationwide survey last year after criticism that the Guard had too few Negroes in its ranks, were ready to release its findings more than a week ago.
But Army authorities ordered them not to do so and directed that the report be stamped "for official use only."

Sources said certain top Army civilian officials apparently felt that releasing the survey as it might seem to point the finger at Negroes, since whites were not questioned in the survey.
Lack of Awareness
Other sources said the survey turned up no appreciable Negro animosity against the Guard, but indicated a lack of awareness of it.

Asked for a copy of the report or a summary of its findings, the Army said: "The Army staff presently is studying a paper prepared by the National Guard Bureau with the assistance of a nongovernment research organization addressing public attitudes toward military service and the Guard."

"The paper is for official use only and not releasable to the public at this time because it is an internal communication."
The National Guard was strongly criticized on the question of Negro participation by both the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders and Cyrus R. Vance, who represented President Johnson in Detroit during the riot there last summer.

Immediate Steps
Both urged immediate steps to increase recruitment of Negroes.

In the aftermath of this criticism, the Guard Bureau commissioned National Analysts Inc. of Philadelphia to make a survey of the attitudes of young Negroes toward military service in general and the National Guard in particular.
The civilian organization interviewed more than 1,000 Negroes between 16 and 24 years old. The nationwide interviewing was done between October and January. The results were analyzed and then turned into the Guard Bureau.

Rockefeller chose the latter course.
Rockefeller is counting heavily on his speeches around the country on major issues, plus his appearances in connection with platform hearings by the Republican Governors Association next month, to rouse support for his candidacy.

But his first effort, a Washington speech on urban problems before the American Society of Newspaper Editors, fell flat last week. Now some observers think that in withdrawing from the primaries he forfeited the arena in which he is strongest — person-to-person campaigning, shaking hands and off-the-cuff speeches.

Meanwhile, delegates are being selected and time is running out on Rockefeller even though the nominee won't be picked until the Republican convention in August.

been beneficial; for Rockefeller, it has complicated his already considerable problems.

Humphrey supporters are pleased with the way things have gone since President Johnson withdrew from the race and it became evident the vice president would challenge Sens. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy for the Democratic nomination.

National Organization
Since there is no doubt Humphrey intends to run—he's expected to announce that Saturday—his backers have been setting up a national campaign organization and rounding up convention support. Meanwhile, their candidate goes about his business as vice president, making appearances around the country.

Their situation has been greatly simplified because filing deadlines for most presidential primaries had passed by the time Johnson withdrew, freeing them to concentrate on nonprimary states which elect most convention delegates.

Rockefeller's supporters are not entirely satisfied with the way things are going despite their optimistic statements about the support the draft-Rockefeller movement is getting around the country.

Wants Nomination
Although it's known Rockefeller wants the GOP presidential nomination and intends to fight former Vice President Richard M. Nixon for it, many politicians have told the Rockefeller camp they cannot support the New Yorker unless he makes his candidacy publicly clear.

This was the dominant theme of a strategy session last week between key leaders in the Rockefeller camp and such uncommitted GOP leaders as Gov. George Romney of Michigan. To a man, they felt Rockefeller must make a formal statement soon if he is to have any chance. Timing has always been a problem for Rockefeller, and it was aggravated by Romney's early withdrawal from the GOP race. The New York governor's backers had counted on Romney to fight against Nixon at least through the April 2 Wisconsin primary.

Divided Camp
When Romney withdrew even before the March 12 New Hampshire primary, the Rockefeller camp was divided between those who felt he should enter the Oregon primary against Nixon and those who thought he should stay out until the primaries were over, as originally planned.

Rockefeller is counting heavily on his speeches around the country on major issues, plus his appearances in connection with platform hearings by the Republican Governors Association next month, to rouse support for his candidacy.

Humphrey Trying to Create Nation Farm-Labor Coalition

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is trying in his still-unannounced bid for the Democratic presidential nomination to forge on a national scale the kind of farm-labor coalition he helped create in Minnesota.
To the surprise of no one Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman came out for Humphrey Tuesday. He said he had told President Johnson in ad-

Peace Corps Investigations Questioned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., questions the spending of $4 million a year to investigate more than 8,000 Peace Corps trainees when only 10 to 15 are let go on the basis of information gleaned from such probes.
Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told Peace Corps Director Jack Vaughn at a hearing Tuesday: "It costs you $400,000 each to find out about them. If it's so minimal, it seems you could take a chance. It's not going to destroy the Peace Corps."
Vaughn replied his understanding is the law requires such investigations. He added the resulting information also helps in deciding whether an individual should be sent overseas.
Aside from this, however, Fulbright praised the Peace Corps and suggested it should have sought more than the $112.8 million requested in the fiscal 1969 budget.

Core Social Center Blazes in Milwaukee; Arson Suspected

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Fire department officials said they suspected arson in a blaze which erupted in a classroom. On March 11 a youth wounded four persons with a pistol during a dance at the center and about two weeks later a youth was wounded by gunfire and another stabbed during an argument.
Three firemen were treated for smoke inhalation.

Revelation of Inmate

Ray Once Spoke Of Murdering King

DALTON, Ga. (AP) — James Earl Ray was quoted by a former fellow inmate Tuesday as saying he would be willing to kill Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. for a $1 million bounty.
Ray, 40, is now sought in connection with the April 4 assassination of King in Memphis, Tenn.
Raymond Curtis, 40, now in Whitfield County jail here, discussed Ray while awaiting action on appeal of a murder conviction.
Curtis said the talk about a bounty on King's life came up while both he and Ray were prisoners at the Missouri State penitentiary at the time of John F. Kennedy's assassination Nov. 22, 1963, in Dallas, Tex.
Collect County
"Another boy said, 'Well, there's a million-dollar bounty to get King.' King was running his mouth pretty good then. Ray said, 'If there is a million-dollar bounty on King, I believe I can collect it,' Curtis said.
No new developments were reported Tuesday in the nationwide search for the fugitive.
In Florida, Robert Gebhardt, special agent in charge of the FBI office in Jacksonville, said a report that the FBI was looking for Eric Starvo Galt in Florida was based on old information.
Gebhardt said the report apparently was based on distribution of information on Galt, whom the FBI says is an alias of Ray, received by the Florida highway patrol.
Curtis said he first met Ray in 1955 when they shared a cell for seven months in the Jackson County jail at Kansas City, Mo. Curtis said he served with Ray again at the Leavenworth federal prison and at the Missouri state penitentiary.
At Leavenworth, he said, he and Ray lived in the same cell building and for a time were in adjoining cells.
After about six months, he said, Ray was transferred to the federal prison in Atlanta and did not see Ray again until late 1961 or early 1962 when they met at the Missouri institution.
Curtis said he was sent to the

Phone Pact Near, Strike Leader Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The age of $3.27 per hour, traditionally set the pattern for wage in telephone workers has predicted creases in the Bell Telephone that settlement of the week-old System, of which Western Electric nationwide walkout may not be a subsidiary.
Other Bell System workers average $2.79 per hour.
In addition to the installers in most states, another 140,000 Bell operators, linemen, repairmen, clerks and other employees are on strike in 15 states where Bell contracts have also expired.
Additional thousands of Bell workers in many other states, whose contracts won't expire for a few more weeks, refused to cross installers' picket lines and joined the strike.
Beirne said the total added up to more than 200,000 workers.
Company officials sent messages of congratulations to thousands of management personnel for filling the jobs of strikers and maintaining near normal telephone service despite the first nationwide walkout in 21 years.
Beirne said that just proved "people are still important" in the highly automated telephone industry.

New School Plans Are Approved at Kimberly

Bids Authorized for West Side Building; Janssen School Addition Also Gets Okay

KIMBERLY — The board of education Monday night approved plans for a new west side elementary school and an addition to Janssen School, Combined Locks, and authorized the architects, Schutte-Mochon Associates, to mail specifications for the work on May 15.

Bids are to be returned by June 19. Plans call for a 26-classroom building on the west side, suitable for 750 students. The structure will be two stories, 241 by 251 feet and incorporate 63,000 square feet of floor space. It is expected to be ready for occupancy for the 1969-70 school year.

Teachers to Explore Role In Politics

A meeting to explore the teachers' role in politics will be at 5:30 p.m. Thursday at Nino's Steak Roundup, on U.S. 41 west of Appleton.

The meeting is being organized by Robert Damon, Wisconsin Education Association (WEA) locals area chairman. About 60 leaders of 17 Fox River Valley communities' locals are expected to participate in the dinner meeting.

The session will be used to explore the problems, to offer some possible avenues of approach and provide an opportunity to begin some cooperative planning for an improved political action program, Damon said.

"This is the reason the Local Committee of WEA has invited local association to participate," he said. "We believe that now is the time to take a careful look at our present role, assess our position and plan our political future."

Communities with local associations expected to be at the meeting are Appleton, Brillion, Chilton, Freedom, Hilbert, Stockbridge, Hortonville, Kaukauna, Kimberly, Manawa, Menasha, Neenah, New London, Reedsville, Weyauwega, Winneconne, Wrightstown, and Little Chute.

Firemen Called For Burning TV

A burning television set brought Appleton firemen to the D. T. Woodford home, 1417 N. Drew St., at 6:20 p.m. Tuesday.

Firemen said there was fire damage to a portion of a wall in the family room, and to the floor and drapes.

At 8:20 p.m. Tuesday, firemen were summoned to a car fire in the alley behind 300 E. College Avenue. The car, owned by Kenneth Hoffman, 1112 W. Taylor St., caught fire in the engine compartment when the auto backfired. A policeman using a hand extinguisher had the fire out when firemen arrived.

There was no damage to the 1961 auto.

Two Youths Sentenced for Roles in Kaukauna Burglary

An 18-year-old youth was put on probation and a second youth's probation was revoked in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 this morning when they appeared on charges stemming from the April 18 burglary of Jumbo's Tavern, 163 W. Wisconsin St., Kaukauna.

Gerald Verhagen, 18, 2114 W. Wisconsin Ave., Kaukauna, was sentenced by Judge Nick F. Schaefer to a two-year term in the Green Bay Reformatory to run concurrently with a four-year sentence for an earlier conviction. Verhagen was put on parole for three years Nov. 17 to the State Department of Health and Social Services for a fourth count of burglary. He pleaded guilty this morning.

Robert E. Eisch, 18, also 2114 W. Wisconsin Ave., pleaded no contest and his sentence was stayed. He was put on probation for two years to the State Department of Health and Social Services.

Verhagen and Eisch were charged with burglarizing the tavern and taking about $100 in change and 25 pounds of fish. Both youths, each appearing with legal counsel, waived preliminary examinations. At the request of Eisch's attorney and after hearing statements from the counsel and the district attorney, Schaefer said he had enough information to forego a pre-sentence investigation.

Officer Recalls No Warrant In Gein Case

he and former Waushara County Sheriff Arthur Schley, who died last month, found Mrs. Worden's body. In a reply to a question by Frinzi, he said that he did not have a search warrant and did not believe that Schley had one when they entered the woodshed attached to the rear of Gein's home.

Leon Murty, former Waushara County deputy, who now operates a body repair shop at Wild Rose, said he went to the Gein home with other policemen twice on Nov. 16, 1957 and took a pistol from the premises. He said that on his second trip to the home he saw someone carry out a large paper bag containing "skin from a person's head." He said he could not recall which of the authorities on the premises was carrying the bag.

"Trail of Blood"

On cross examination by Robert Sutton, assistant state attorney general, Murty testified that he saw a "trail of blood" on the floor leading to the backroom of Mrs. Worden's hardware store. Over strong objections by Frinzi, Murty told Sutton: "It looked like the heels of a person's shoes were dragged though the blood."

Murty also testified that Gein had been at the Worden hardware store on Nov. 15, 1957 at which time he asked Mrs. Worden to go roller skating with him. Murty said that Mrs. Worden's son, Frank, had not approved.

According to testimony, Gein was to return to the store the next day to purchase, "alcohol or anti-freeze." Gein, according to testimony, also was seen driving Mrs. Worden's truck on Nov. 16.

Policemen who testified today said they went to the Gein home seeking Mrs. Worden and to question Gein about her disappearance.

Dan Chase, retired Waushara County deputy, said that he took Gein into custody after finding him in his car at Hill's store near Plainfield the night of Nov. 16. Chase said he did not place Gein under arrest for murder until after they had driven into Plainfield. He said he did not advise Gein of his constitutional rights until after the arrest.

Chase also said he went to the Gein home later without a search warrant when cross-examined by Sutton. He testified he found blood on Gein's right shoulder when he disrobed him and searched him at the jail here.

The only other testimony this morning came from Arden A. Spies, former Plainfield village marshal, who said he was with Chase when Gein was taken into custody.

Investigate Cause of Fire In Apartment

Further investigation will be made today in an attempt to determine how fire broke out in an E. Wisconsin Avenue apartment early this morning, and who tried to extinguish it.

Appleton firemen were called to a second floor apartment at 120 E. Wisconsin Ave. at 1:20 a.m. when a first floor occupant smelled burning rubber.

Firemen had to force the door to enter the second floor apartment occupied by Duane Pavelka and Al Rathlisberg, when they got no response to their knocking. They found Rathlisberg, 22, asleep in his bedroom. Firemen said he had to be awakened.

There was fire in a davenport and rubber was burning on a floor. Firemen said it appeared someone tried unsuccessfully to douse the davenport fire with water. Rathlisberg said he did not smoke, did not know about the fire, and did not know who tried to douse the flames.

Pavelka was not home at the time. Firemen, who carried out the burning davenport, said there was little damage to the building. They said the blaze may have started from a discarded cigarette. Police also took part in the investigation.

Arkansas Town
Cleans Rubble

GREENWOOD, Ark. (AP) — Most of the rubble and debris in the downtown section of this western Arkansas town has been bulldozed away following the tornado that struck Friday, killing 13 persons.

More than 400 volunteers aided in the cleanup operation which began Saturday morning.

U.S. 71, leading into Greenwood, was blocked off Sunday to prevent sightseers from hindering homes.

The American Red Cross said 98 homes were destroyed in the town. The organization also said 108 homes received major damage and another 106 minor damage. Thirty-five business buildings were destroyed or damaged according to the report.

Nineteen farm buildings were destroyed along with two mobile homes.

Valley Counties Receive State Highway Aids

Supplementary Improvement Funds
Total $1,318,178

Four Fox River Valley area counties received checks in April totaling $1,317,755 as part of the state's supplementary highway aids for improvement to county trunk highways and local public roads and streets.

The checks, amounting to $24,233,276 statewide, were mailed by the Department of Transportation, Division of Highways.

Outagamie County and its municipalities received $467,702; Winnebago, $416,263; Waupaca, $286,511, and Calumet County, $147,278.

This distribution represents prepayment of part of the 1968 supplemental aids. The balance will be paid after the close of the fiscal year.

Fund Breakdown
The breakdown for each county and municipality is as follows:

Outagamie, $132,474; plus $335,227 for cities of Appleton, $168,265, Kaukauna $25,815, New London $4,892, Seymour $6,663, villages of Bear Creek $2,619, Black Creek $2,892, Combined Locks $4,877, Hortonville $3,549, Kimberly $10,530, Little Chute $11,305, Shiocton $2,877, and 20 towns $90,938.

Waupaca $103,906; plus $182,604 for cities of Clintonville, $15,570, Manawa, $3,704, Marion $4,973, New London, $14,876, Waupaca $15,563, Weyauwega $7,357; villages of Big Falls $782, Embarrass, $1,630, Fremont $2,863, Iola $1,298, Ogdensburg $1,298, Scandinavia $2,191; and 22 towns $108,427.

Winnebago $120,764; plus $295,499 for cities of Menasha, $28,731, Neenah $46,602, Oshkosh $145,053, Omro $8,087; village of Winneconne $8,316; and 16 towns $58,706.

Calumet $47,407; plus $99,870 for cities of Appleton, $10,504, Brillion $6,324, Chilton $9,482, Kiel $833, New Holstein $8,264; villages of Hilbert $3,483, Stockbridge $2,789; and nine towns $58,188.

Aid Shared
Under the current partial distribution of supplemental aids, the counties share $7,271,852; cities under 10,000 population share $1,879,813, and over 10,000 population share $6,058,609; villages share $1,751,148, and towns $7,271,855.

The present distribution of funds is the second of four major allotments to municipalities to be made during the current year. In 1967, approximately $50 million in highway user taxes were collected by the state and returned to the municipalities.

Basic aids amounting to $6,557,169 were distributed in March. The present prepayment will be followed by the final payment in July. The "privilege highway tax" is returned to municipalities in December.

Counties receive three major allotments during the year. In 1967, the allotments totaled more than $19.2 million. The present prepayment will be followed by a distribution of basic aids in June and the final payment of supplemental aids in July. These funds are exclusive of federal or state participation in qualified construction projects.

Dancer Fined $50 at Waupaca

WAUPACA — A go-go dancer arrested after a Friday night performance at a Bear Creek Corners bar, was fined $50 Saturday after she pleaded no contest to a disorderly conduct charge.

Mrs. Arlene Ziebell, 37, 358A S. Park Ave., Oshkosh, was arrested by sheriff's department deputies sent to watch her perform after Sheriff William Mork received complaints that the dancer's act was indecent.

Mrs. Ziebell, who appeared Saturday before Municipal Justice George Whalen, was found guilty after her no contest plea. She told the court that she had performed the same act in Oshkosh for two years with no complaints. She was performing at George's Place when arrested.

Dudley Birder About To Add 18th Musical To St. Norbert Record

'West Side Story,' Talented Faculty Showman's Hardest, Opens Saturday

BY PATRICIA VIETS
WEST DE PERE — Not too many theatrical directors can look back on an unbroken string of 17 successes.

Dudley Birder, whose current production of "West Side Story" opens a five-night run at St. Norbert College Saturday, is a man whose record would be coveted on Broadway.

His sensitive musical ear and was our first appearance to an arena theater (in the round). Birder himself had an acting part in this one, along with his directing duties.

'Yankee' Troublesome
"The most troublesome was 'Connecticut Yankee' in 1963, put together in three weeks' time. "We were rewriting it up to opening night," Birder explained, "and one of the leads became ill and had to be replaced two nights before we opened. One page of dialog was never rehearsed.

The reason for all this was that "West Side Story" was the show originally planned.

"This is our second crack at 'West Side Story,'" Birder related. "The first time, when we had been in rehearsal a week, Julie Bettinger, one of the leads, broke her ankle. Also, the orchestrations didn't arrive on time. So we canceled it and did 'Connecticut Yankee' instead."

In the meantime Julie transferred to another college, then stayed out of school a while. She now has returned to St. Norbert to graduate next fall. By coincidence, her old part of Anita was there waiting for her and this time it looks as if the show will go on.

Sounds Like Broadway
Besides the musicals mentioned, the entire list includes most of what has happened in musical comedy on Broadway in recent years, with the exception of "Amahl and the Night Visitors."

The others are "Kiss Me Kate," "Bells are Ringing," "Little Mary Sunshine," "The Fantasticks," "The Music Man," "My Fair Lady," "Take Me Along," "Camelot" and "How To Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

Perhaps part of Birder's magic is that he sees talent in everyone. Is this possible — can so many people have real talent?

Needs Chance, He Says
"Yes... it's just a matter of giving it a chance," he believes. "Talent is also acquired skills... it takes coaching and guidance. Acting is the most natural of all talents. Everyone acts every day of his life. It's the breaking down of inhibitions and understanding what you are doing on stage."

And his clincher: "Everyone has some musical talent."

When the curtain goes up on "West Side Story" just about everybody will believe that. Tickets for reserved seats for performances April 27 through May 1 can be purchased at the St. Norbert College music department and at Newman's, Green Bay. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. in the Hall of Fine Arts on the DePere campus.

Surprises Abundant
Heretofore undiscovered virtuosos surprised their friends when tryouts were thrown open to the community. It also added a late summer musical to the year's schedule for the indefatigable director.

While the collegiate talent has increased along with the school's enrollment, which now stands at about 1,700, Birder believes that "the local talent has always been here. It's just come out more because of the success of our shows."

Funny things happened not only "On the Way to the Forum" (last summer's show) but all along the way. "Trial by Fire" the Gilbert and Sullivan opera, was produced in 1961 and had 28 road show performances. The group toured weekends and vacations.

For an engagement at West High the crew moved the scenery early in the day, stacked it up backstage and went to lunch. In the meantime an energetic janitor found it and, thinking it to be junk, promptly hauled it all out and burned it.

A completely new set was built in 2½ hours, the show went on, and by the final curtain the entire cast was well-streaked with wet paint.

Flat on her Face
Another time a leading lady, who was nearly blind without her contact lenses, decided not to wear them. It would make her less self-conscious, she felt, if she couldn't see the audience at all. The system worked. She did her first scene beautifully. Then, turning to go offstage, she fell flat on her face from a three-foot platform, emerging shortly with a nosebleed.

"Bye, Bye Birdie" (1964) was scheduled to open two weeks after the beginning of the second semester. In order to participate in the shows students have to have a C average. When first semester grades came out, of the 20 freshmen in the cast, 12 had to be dropped.

"I'm more careful about that sort of thing now," Birder says. His favorite production was "Earnest in Love" which was "very, very successful... very enjoyable to work on. I liked it for many reasons," he said. "It

Eddy Arnold To Host on Music Hall!

BY TV SCOUT

8-9 (Channel 5) — Singing star Eddy Arnold kicks off The Kraft Music Hall summer series with the first of six "County Fairs."

The look of the Fair is much the same as the Hall with host Arnold introducing trumpeter Al Hirt, comedian-impressionist John Byner, singer Joannie Sommers and magician Mark Wilson. He also sprinkles the show liberally with some of his more popular recordings such as "Somebody Likes Me" and "I Wanna Go With You." He also joins Hirt and Miss Sommers in a blues medley done in city, country and New Orleans styles, including "Birth of the Blues" and "Blues in the Night." (C)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 11-9) — With its usual adroitness for picking locations and back-grounding that greatly enhance its stories, The Avengers tonight utilizes the silent and somber walls of a monastery to frame its murder mystery. The villains are three Russian agents who have been imprisoned under top security behind these walls, but nevertheless manage to sneak out to do their work of assassinating British agents. (C)

6:30 - 8 (Channel 5) — In this episode of The Virginian John McIntyre made his first appearance as the replacement for Charles Bickford, playing Clay Grainger, the brother of John, and bringing along Mrs. Grainger played by Jeannette Nolan.

The story is about an ex-lawman who is driven to the verge of insanity when his wife is accidentally killed by a visiting cowhand, John Anderson is featured. (R-C)

7:30 - 8 (Channels 2-7) — London will be the setting for The Beverly Hillbillies for the next three weeks and it's worth watching as the Clampetts completely confound the usually imperturbable British. Granny and her magic cures at the customs stop is a particularly enjoyable sequence as well as her visit to the apothecary. (R-C)

8 - 8:30 (Channels 2-7) — The cast of extras on Green Acres numbers 50 and includes a few assorted turkeys, geese, ducks, chickens, cats, dogs and an occasional pony, calf and even a skunk. They all gather 'round the Douglas farmhouse when Lisa is honored by an appointment to the Hooterville Humane Committee which she takes quite seriously. (R-C)

8:30-9 (Channels 2-7) — He and She doesn't have a particularly bright plot tonight, but the breezy manner of its stars, particularly Dick Benjamin, make it worthwhile. It is standard situation comedy material with Dick talking about his illness and his new will at the same time leading Paula to believe that he is about to die. (R-C)

9-10 (Channels 2-7) — Tonight's episode of The Jonathan Winters Show is a potpourri of rewritten and hastily changed skits and sequences brought about by the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King. Comedian Godfrey Cambridge is starred along with singers Bobbie Gentry and Marilyn Michaels and TV star Fess Parker. (C)

9-10 (Channel 5) — You can tell when the star of a series also directs an episode by the lessening of his role and the build-up of the guest star's part as happens on Run For Your Life. Franchot Tone is starred as a distinguished retired jurist who is taken over the coals by a muck-raking television interviewer. (R-C)

Residents Opposed to Sanitary District Plan

MENASHA — Property owners worried about how they are going to pay for a sanitary district on the west side of Little Lake Butte des Morts laid down a barrage of criticism on Tuesday night.

Some 230 townsmen jammed the gymnasium at Spring Road School for a public hearing on a proposal to extend the town's east side sanitary sewer and water district to a major portion of the west side.

The three-hour meeting was

School Board Is Accused of 'Arrogance'

Ald. Staidl Hits Plans for Latest Building Projects

Disenchantment with Appleton Board of Education meetings and attitudes was expressed Tuesday night by the chairman of the city council's school advisory committee.

Ald. John Steidl (18th) told a group of aldermen and other city officials at city hall that the school board "appears to be arrogant when it comes to the financial welfare of the community."

Steidl said he was unhappy about the board's latest plan to launch four building projects for $3.3 million between now and 1970 and to seek permission from the council to immediately hire an architect.

"Double-Talk"

"We (the committee) attempted to get some answers from the board, but either got ignored or received double-talk," Steidl declared.

Steidl said committee members arrived at the conclusion that "board president Charles Buchanan and Supt. William Spears are running the show as far as the school board is concerned."

Steidl said the council's school advisory committee intended to seek future meetings with the board of education and head of the administration at city hall.

He also disclosed the committee intends to request public school officials to submit an initial draft of the proposed 1968-69 public schools operation budget before it is approved by the board of education.

"The committee wants to know what it is all about before the whole thing is dumped into the lap of the city council," Steidl said.

Seeks Cooperation

Steidl said because it is the responsibility of the city council to levy taxes and raise funds for the public school system, his committee was hopeful the school board would cooperate and meet certain requests which will be made in the near future.

Over the past five years the city council, at the request of the school board, has bonded for $10,785,000 for new school building projects, an average of more than $2.1 million a year.

The original request for the Appleton East High School was for $5.5 million, but the council cut it to $5 million. However, the school board obtained more than $200,000 in federal aids and applied it to the project to boost the cost of $5.2 million.

Steidl alluded to this and said the committee would also press for an understanding with the heated, and Town Chairman Roland Kampo had to let charges like "underhanded," "deceptive" roll off his back while he attempted to explain how the town officials see the problem and the need for new water and sanitary sewer services.

A list passed around the townsmen showed 85 property owners against the proposal and 19 for. Several times individuals rose on the floor to ask for an immediate vote, sure that the tenor of the meeting was against the project.

But the state law doesn't work that way.

The procedure for formation of a district under state statutes requires that more than 50 per cent of the proposed land be approved for entry not more than 50 per cent of the voters.

Douglas Kaufman, town building inspector who has done much of the solicitation of property owners in the proposed area, said after the meeting that "way over" 51 per cent of the landowners had gone along with the project, despite the 85 objectors present at the meeting.

Most of the commercial properties along U.S. 41 have favored the expansion of the district.

Generally, the boundaries for the proposed addition to District 4 on the east side run from the county line on the north, along Little Lake Butte des Morts on the east, to the Town of Neenah on the south, to a line short of the Town of Clayton on the west.

Bargaining Set With Teachers In Winneconne

WINNECONNE — Further bargaining between the board of education and the Winneconne Teachers Association will resume at 8 p.m. Thursday, with both groups reported in better positions to negotiate.

Since the negotiations terminated a week ago, a joint release from the association members and the board has been anticipated. It came today from Supt. Virgil Wadleigh and Robert Magle, President of WTA.

Evidence that bargaining had bogged down came on Friday, when reliable sources disclosed that teachers had returned their contracts unsigned.

"This is the strongest protest teachers could legally register," Magley said today.

Contracts were to be returned with signatures by April 18 and this time was not extended by the board of education.

Better Service Ends With Road Department

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Traffic backed up more than a mile at a problem entrance to the Interstate 80 in East Salt Lake City Tuesday. Highway patrol officers sent to untangle the jam found crews from the State Highway Department handing out questionnaires asking motorists for suggestions for better service.

school board that once costs are set for projects, state or federal aids must not be used by the school board to make additions or increase costs.

Steidl said the reorganized school advisory committee intended to play a more active role to keep the council informed on school matters because of the impact they are having on the local property tax rate.

Two Parochial School Students have been named recipients of $600 Appleton Rotary Club scholarships. George Kirk, right, Kimberly, a student at Fox Valley Lutheran, and Karlene Van Grinsven, Appleton, a senior at Xavier, receive the awards Tuesday from H. H.

Councilmen Approve Bond Issue; Annex Suits Hamper Bid Process

MENASHA — The Menasha Council approved the low interest rate of 4.24 per cent on a $900,000 bond issue Tuesday night, but learned that the pending annexation litigation prevented some companies from bidding.

The prospectus for the bond issue, the first prepared by the city's new financial consultant, the First Wisconsin National Bank of Milwaukee, noted that two suits were pending and stated that the validity of the bonds "will not be affected by the final disposition of such litigation."

Nevertheless, said Harry Kivell, the representative of the bank, the Harris Trust Co. of Chicago had refused to bid on the issue because of the suits. Two other companies also took it into consideration, along with the uncertain bond market at this time, when declining to enter bids, he said. He described bond companies as "very conservative."

Officials Happy

Kivell and city officials were happy, however, with the low bid and the fact that eight companies had participated. This compares to seven companies last time.

The suits involving the Town of Menasha come up for trial Monday.

The next low bid was 4.25 per cent, with the high bid running to 4.33 per cent.

Net interest cost will be $327,773 on the $900,000 principal, compared to $334,633 for the high bidder.

Fund Use

The $900,000 will be used as follows: $445,000 for the new library, $70,000 for the proposed substation, $155,000 for storm sewer projects, $89,500 for sanitary sewer costs, $190,000 for street improvements and $40,000 for replacing the Lawson Canal Bridge.

The last bonds in the issue will mature in 1980, which means a 12-year pay-back. Kivell explained to the councilmen that the interest rate on the shorter term bonds is better now, because of the difficult market for longer term issues.

The bonds have been timed, he said, to keep the city's debt service in line with the tax service. The highest year for the city's total principal and interest payments will be 1968, when it will represent $3.91 on the equalized tax rate. It will fall off to $3.15 by 1979.

In 1966, debt service represented $3.86 on the equalized rate, and in 1967 it was $3.67.

with the city in February. The consultant service is new in Wisconsin, he said, and now is in use in five different municipal units in the state.

The next project for the Milwaukee bank will be the bond issue for the new high school additions, which will be coming up shortly.

Bergstrom Paper Quarterly Profits Increase Slightly

NEENAH — Bergstrom Paper Company, in its three months report to stockholders released today, reported net earnings of $383,000, or 65 cents per share of stock, compared with $365,000, or 62 cents per share, during the first three months of 1967.

Net sales for the period were $5,957,000, compared with $6,082,000 for the same period a year ago.

In discussing earnings, N. H. Bergstrom, chairman, and H. R. Moore, president, pointed out in a letter to stockholders that, "In prior years we had used an accelerated depreciation in computing the useful life of our assets, for both income tax and financial reporting purposes. To make our comparable financial position consistent with the industry, we now employ the 'straight line' method of depreciation for our published financial statements, retaining the accelerated method for income tax computation.

"Using straight-line depreciation, earnings of $383,000 or 65 cents per share in the first three months of 1968 exceeded our 1967 record of $365,000 in net earnings and 62 cents per share. On our old accelerated depreciation method, earnings would have been 60 cents per share in 1968 compared to 62 cents for 1967."

Looking back on the first three months of 1968, the two executives said, "Our market service for printing papers has improved. We are not sure that it will be sustained. The agonies of our society, at home and at war, must surely have their effect on our economy. The props to our much-vaunted boom can toppled with loss of confidence. Order backlogs can constrict and vanish. We will not be complacent."

Here's Your Chance to Win Some Foreign Coins

BY CAPPY DICK

Can you unscramble the name of the soup the boy has been served? Young readers who solve this puzzle have a chance to win a leather pouch containing 50 different coins from 50 different countries.

Five of these drawingstring pouches — resembling those used by miners in the Gold Rush days — will be given away as the national grand prizes in this contest. One will go to each boy or girl whose contest entry proves to be one of the five neatest and most original correct ones received from all the cities where this column is published. This prize can give a young reader a good start as a collector of coins.

There are additional prizes, too. These are local qualifying awards offered for the 5 neatest and most original correct puzzle solutions sent in by boys or girls of the Fox Cities area.

Each of the preliminary winners will receive a Cappy Dick show-and-tell packet containing three foreign coins. Entries winning these prizes will be considered in the competition for the 50-coin leather pouches.

The puzzle is a cinch to solve. All you need do is rearrange the mixed-up letters to form the name of the soup. Next, clip out the picture and paste it on a sheet of paper. Print the soup's name beneath it, along with your name, age, address and Zip Code number.

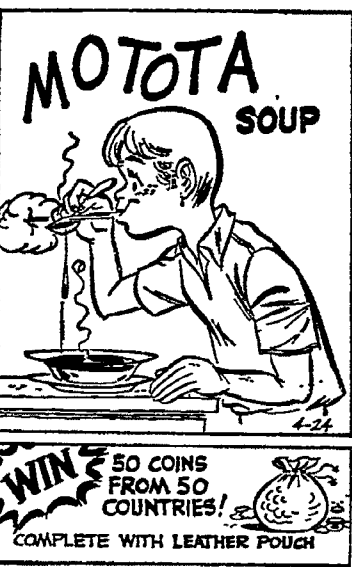

Decorate the entry in any neat, original way, using paints, crayons or cutouts. Finally, address it to Cappy Dick's Midwest Foreign Coin Contest at The Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow.

Prize winners' names will be announced here and their awards will be sent to their homes by mail.

Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property: none can be returned.

Buchanan town chairman, also attended.

Feuerstein assured town representatives there was no question as to the fact the towns should receive their pro-rated share of interest income to lower the next year's school tax levy. However, he said coming up with a clear-cut formula for doing so would be difficult.

At one point city and town officials said they would consider a proposal whereby the annual tax levy would be paid in three installments to the treasurer — Jan. 1, Feb. 15 and March 15.

There was general agreement that distribution of interest income was not a problem unique to the Appleton school district.

During discussion it was brought out that 2,623 children from Grand Chute are enrolled in the Appleton public schools. The town this year paid slightly over $990,000 in school taxes.

Thorson said all money due the school system should be kept in a separate fund so it could earn interest.

More Bookkeeping

And Feuerstein indicated it might mean more bookkeeping on the city's part which could result in additional charges for such service to the towns.

But Thorson and Herring gave assurance the towns wanted to "pay their fair share and get their fair share of interest income."

It was emphasized by Feuerstein that at no time has public school monies gone into Appleton's general fund, which Grand Chute officials had believed was the case.

And Thorson also made it clear all interest earned in the segregated fund should not become an addition to the school board budget. "If the money is available to the board it will spend it all," Thorson declared.

Feuerstein, who also serves as treasurer of the school district, said the law stipulated interest must be used to reduce school tax levies and cannot be included as budget income.

"Our school taxes are killing us," Livingston charged. "We need the interest income to help reduce the levies."

Short End

Geenen injected that because of different laws governing when the city and towns have to pay the school tax, and assessment figures that are being used, "The city is getting the short end of the stick."

"The time lag of one year on your assessment hurts us tremendously," Geenen told Grand Chute officials.

Town and city officials also indicated they intend to keep watch on the checking account of the public school system to make sure it does not carry a large balance, contending money should be invested on a short-term basis whenever possible to draw interest income.

Kampo said he didn't like the Appleton Public School system setup and suggested representatives of the towns and city "meet four or five times a year to talk some of these school things over."

And Thorson also suggested separate meetings of the fiscal control board, which is comprised of members of the city council and the chairman of four towns. The fiscal board meetings are usually held the night of a regular council meeting to act on public school district matters.

Youths Hurt as Car Hits Tree

Two youths were injured when their car struck a tree at N. Drew Street and W. Glendale Avenue about 1:20 a.m. today.

Zuleger, 2013 N. Drew St., who suffered chin and forehead cuts and a left arm injury. They were treated and released.

Appleton police said that Jernegan was eastbound on Glendale and was turning left onto Drew when his car went out of control and struck the tree.

Michael Malliet, 18, and James Schampers, 19, both of Green Bay were killed Tuesday when a car driven by Malliet collided with a one-ton truck delivering eggs.

The truck driver, Ralph Lange, 26, of Denmark, was critically injured and his 6-year-old daughter, Vickie, was also hurt. Mrs. Laura Gilson, 64, of Duna week's study in three areas — how communities come about, subsequent problems and proposed solutions. It also includes outside classroom assignments and tests.

The unit was prepared by Arno Haering, COG planner, at the request of the COG education committee. It developed out of frequent phone calls asking COG planners to talk to classes.

"This provides a more effective teaching or urban affairs," Haering said. Community or regional planners may also be asked to speak as part of the course.

All COG community private and public schools' history, economics, and government teachers have been sent copies of the unit.

Haering said about 500 Neenah students have taken the three-week course which is part of a modern problems course required for seniors.

Rehabilitation Successes in State Growing

Board of Health Efforts Resulting In Increased Work

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — With extension of the vocational rehabilitation effort to include persons with mental health and alcoholism problems, there has been a spectacular increase in case-loads and in successful rehabilitations, State Board of Health and Social Services have been informed.

Last year a record total of 6,115 Wisconsin handicapped persons were returned to employment, a 34 per cent increase over the previous year, and a 344 per cent gain over the total a decade ago, the State Rehabilitation Division said in its annual report. The division, formerly a part of the State Department of Adult and Vocational Education, was transferred to the health and social services agency a year ago in the general state government reorganization act.

Historically the program has dealt with persons afflicted with physical disabilities and disease, deformed limbs, amputations, tuberculosis, and others.

Mental Health
But lately the "mental health revolution," as the document termed it, has reached the vocational rehabilitation service, with impressive results. The mentally retarded and mentally ill clients involve more work and expense, noted Adrian Towne, veteran head of the service, but such new cases now represent half of the persons successfully aided and placed in gainful employment.

Towne also disclosed that for the first time alcoholics are being enrolled in the program in significant numbers. More than 200 of them were successfully helped last year, he said.

Towne said that the agency which was created nearly half a century ago originally concentrated on retraining the industrial cripple, which made it an appropriate adjunct of the vocational education system. With broadening of the training effort to include other handicapped persons, the transfer of the program to the health and social services department permitted effective contact with other agencies serving many of the same clients, it was said.

New State Boys School Gets Director

Reformatory Aide
At Green Bay

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — A former Green Bay reformatory member has been appointed head of the planned state boys school in Lincoln County, it was announced Tuesday.

He is Paul Imler, 42, assistant superintendent for administration of the Wales School for Boys, Waukesha County. He served as a social worker at the Green Bay institution in 1954 and 1955, after transferring there from the state prison in Waupun.

He left the reformatory in 1955 when he was promoted social work supervisor in the psychiatric field services branch of the division of corrections of the then-State Department of Public Welfare.

Imler will become the active superintendent of the planned $12 million facility in northern Wisconsin for delinquent boys during its final planning and construction phase. The 300 bed facility is still several years from full operation.

The appointment caps a 20 year career in social work for Imler. He holds a bachelor's degree from Indiana University, and earned a master's degree in social work in 1950 from that school.

After working as a probation officer in Marion County, Indiana, he moved to Wisconsin in 1953 to take his position at the state prison. In 1959 he transferred to the Wales boys school.

Married, Imler is the father of two sons.

Dad, Oh, Granddad

SEATTLE (AP) — Last Wednesday, Jesse Cox' wife, Loretta, gave birth to their first son, Byron Christopher. About six hours later, his daughter, Mrs. Richard Cords, gave birth to a daughter, Stephanie.

More Charges Filed

Hortonville, New London Youths Face New Charges

Two more charges were brought Tuesday afternoon against four New London and Hortonville area youths.

One of the charges stems from the burning of a hunting lodge near Hortonville last month.

The additional charges of burglary and theft were brought against Peter Carmody, 18, route 2, Hortonville; Eugene Fink, 19, route 1, New London; John Jolly, 18, 1323 Division St., New London, and Robert Muskevitch, 19, 324 E. Quincy St., New London.

Outagamie County Sheriff's investigators alleged that the four broke into the Mosquito Valley Shooting Preserve and Game Farm hunting lodge March 27. The building, owned by Appleton Wire Works, Inc., was destroyed by fire early the same morning.

Gasoline Theft
The youths also are charged with the theft of 20 gallons of gasoline from the Kramer Construction Co. of Plain, Wis., on March 27. The fuel was taken from a construction site on Outagamie County Trunk M. near Hortonville.

The four appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Monday on four charges each of criminal damage to property, in connection with the breaking of display windows at four Kaukauna business places on April 4.

They have not yet entered pleas on any of the charges. Judge Nick F. Schaefer, at the request of their attorney, continued the cases until today, and increased bond for each youth to $1,450. However, he ordered a bail-bond study when their attorney asked for a bond reduction so the youths could return to school and their jobs. The youths are in jail.

Income Potential Is Poor in Small Orchard Operation

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The small orchard may be fun for the man who has retired, but he should be cautious about the potential income from such an enterprise that may be available to supplement his regular pension.

The small orchard may be a healthful and enjoyable outdoor activity for the man who has some experience in the subject. However, it is unlikely to produce much money to extend retirement income, warns an expert in the production of fruit for the market.

Such hopes are often disappointed by the reality, says George Klingbeil, University of Wisconsin fruit specialist. He warns that producing tree fruits is a year around job. It requires five to eight years to raise trees that will yield a crop of apples, pears or plums, and there are costly and perilous problems of pest and disease control to thwart the unwary and the inexperienced. Klingbeil estimates that it costs $1,000 an acre to establish an orchard and manage it until it produces enough to cover the investment in operation and land purchase.

The smaller fruit varieties provide more promise of return for the small grower, both in the time required to produce a marketable crop, and in the investment required.

Grapes can produce a fair harvest in as few as three years. Raspberries and strawberries produce even more rapidly, at comparatively small cost. The berries are probably the best choices for an income source, the University man says, because of their higher rate of return. An additional factor favoring them is the minimum equipment required for the successful cropping of the fruit.

False Alarm
COMBINED LOCKS — A short in the telephone system was blamed for a false alarm which summoned volunteer firemen to the village fire garage about 6:45 a.m. Tuesday.

Old Fashioned Barn Raising Planned Saturday at Rawhide

NEW LONDON — About 50 Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity members Saturday will have an old fashioned barn raising at Rawhide.

Fraternity members under the direction of Appleton Building Trades Union members will raise an entire 40 by 50 foot livery stable at the group home and boys camp located between New London and Fremont on the Wolf River.

Earl Richter, Bonduel, operator of a commercial logging operation near Rawhide, donated the lumber for the stable and Wire Products Co., Hortonville, donated the nails.

The livery stable will house the string of 30 horses which have been obtained by Rawhide during the past three years.

John Gillespie, director, said this spring the public could make use of the horses for rides over the 10 miles of logging trails on the 700-acre Rawhide grounds. The hourly fee charged will be used to help defray the expense of the horses upkeep.

Public tours of Rawhide may be made from 1 to 5 p.m. daily.

Changes Urged for Welfare Structure

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The structure of Wisconsin's welfare administration system must be reshaped to provide efficient and economical service to state citizens, a parade of local welfare leaders told the legislative Joint Committee on Finance Tuesday.

Recent changes fostered by the state to comply with new federal programs and their regulations have hampered the local administration of welfare services, the county social service workers assured the committee, which is making an interim study of the problem for probable action by the 1969 legislature.

Led by Theodore Bennett of Beaver Dam, president of the State Association of Welfare Directors, the county and regional officials told state lawmakers that laws should be redrafted to provide for easier application, granting and administration of aids ranging from dependent children to medical care for the elderly.

Change Laws
Bennett told the committee that the state should change existing laws to:

- Allow public assistance recipients to receive cash grants by swearing to their need, as old age medical assistance clients now may, rather than proving financial need.
- Coordinate lien law application so that the ties on aid recipients property either applies universally or not at all. At present liens can be filed for old age assistance, but not for more than half of all welfare costs, including medical benefits for the elderly through state programs.
- Coordinate relative responsibility laws so that the charges made against recipients of aid are distributed equally. Extremely small cash grants of aid now carry such stipulations, but medical assistance comes without those responsibilities, under state law, the committee was told.
- Pass up some federal programs of aids to states and their welfare recipients until workable administration systems can be evolved. Some state programs have been started because of the pressures of political campaigns, leading to poor administration, poor social services and inflated costs to state taxpayers, Bennett charged.

Valley Counties
His words were echoed by Earl Lundemark of Shawano, who represented seven counties of the Fox Valley area at the hearing.

The state should allow counties to apply a nursing care fee schedule to participating homes under medical care for the elderly programs, he said. Costs to the state and to local taxpayers could be held down while equal service could be provided by having such local control, he stressed, if the authority was not concentrated on the state level.

Programs and administrative systems should be simplified, he urged, saying that welfare workers were becoming "almost as bewildered as the poor" by the maze of federal requirements attached to federally-supported programs.

He made a strong appeal for the block grant approach to federal aid programs, pointing out that Wisconsin receives only $1 back from Washington for every $1.63 it pays in federal taxes.

"When we are getting only part of our federal money back why should we have to accept the federal mandates?" Lundemark asked.

Ballot Power
When asked what he thought were the prospects for such a change, he said, "The ballot box in November is as close as anyone is going to get to an answer to that at this time."

The hearing was held in response by a call from the committee's co-chairman, Sen. Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale, for comments from county welfare directors and other interested officials on the administration of the state's welfare systems.

The last two sessions of the legislature have revamped sizable blocks of the welfare programs through the establishment of Medicaid and Medicare programs.

Hollander said that he hopes a task force can be created within the State Department of Health and Social Services to help in the drafting of proposed laws for the coming legislative session to simplify administrative lines and cut down on climbing administrative costs associated with the new programs.

Conversation Pieces

Designed for Partying

By Lillian Mackesy POST-CRESCENT FOOD EDITOR

Designed for spring parties, each and every recipe today is a conversation piece that will bring the Oh's and Ahs every cook likes to hear. Each has a special flair in idea . . . color . . . charm just right for one of the occasions that seem to pop up with the tulips every May.

There's May Day itself, worthy of celebration because the air has turned balmy and the garden shows promise. The whole world seems full of windsong and birdsong early in the bright mornings.

There is Mother's Day just ahead . . . bridal showers . . . graduations and weddings. There may be new neighbors in the block or even old neighbors ready for a good spring kaffee-katsch. The Orange Daisy Coffeecake, as bright as its name, is an excellent choice for an informal kitchen get-together.

The fashionable miniatures are suggested for showers and graduation parties and Mother's Day. Cupcakes that conceal a sweet cranberry filling beneath a lacy coconut frosting make pretty, individual table decorations which can serve as place cards for a party, then dessert later on. The Maypole theme makes a bright decor for a Mother's Day tea or for a shower.

Shower Mini-Cakes, served with gold Apricot Sour Punch, make delightful go-alongs honoring a bride. Served in champagne glasses, the punch becomes the collective toast to the happy guest. (Suggested proportions for a 24-cup bridal punch bowl are 1 pint Apricot brandy; 1 fifth gin or vodka; 26 ounces clear lemon-lime soda, chilled. Pour brandy and gin over ice block or ice cubes in punch bowl, stirring well; add soda just before serving.)

A bright idea that's quite simple but beautiful and seemingly difficult is the edible bouquet called Nosegay Cupcakes. These are orange-flavored confections frosted in pastel shades, then decorated with sweet gumdrop roses. Arrange in a colorful bowl over a small covered bowl for a gay, spring-time dessert-centerpiece.

Pink and pretty describes the Frosty Plum Loaf, quickly prepared in a loaf pan, then popped in the freezer to be ready ahead. Last, but not least, is another idea which can serve as both a snack piece or an appetizer tree. Strips of lunch meats are rolled up alone or around olives or cheeses to make a handsome party tree.

ORANGE DAISY COFFEECAKE

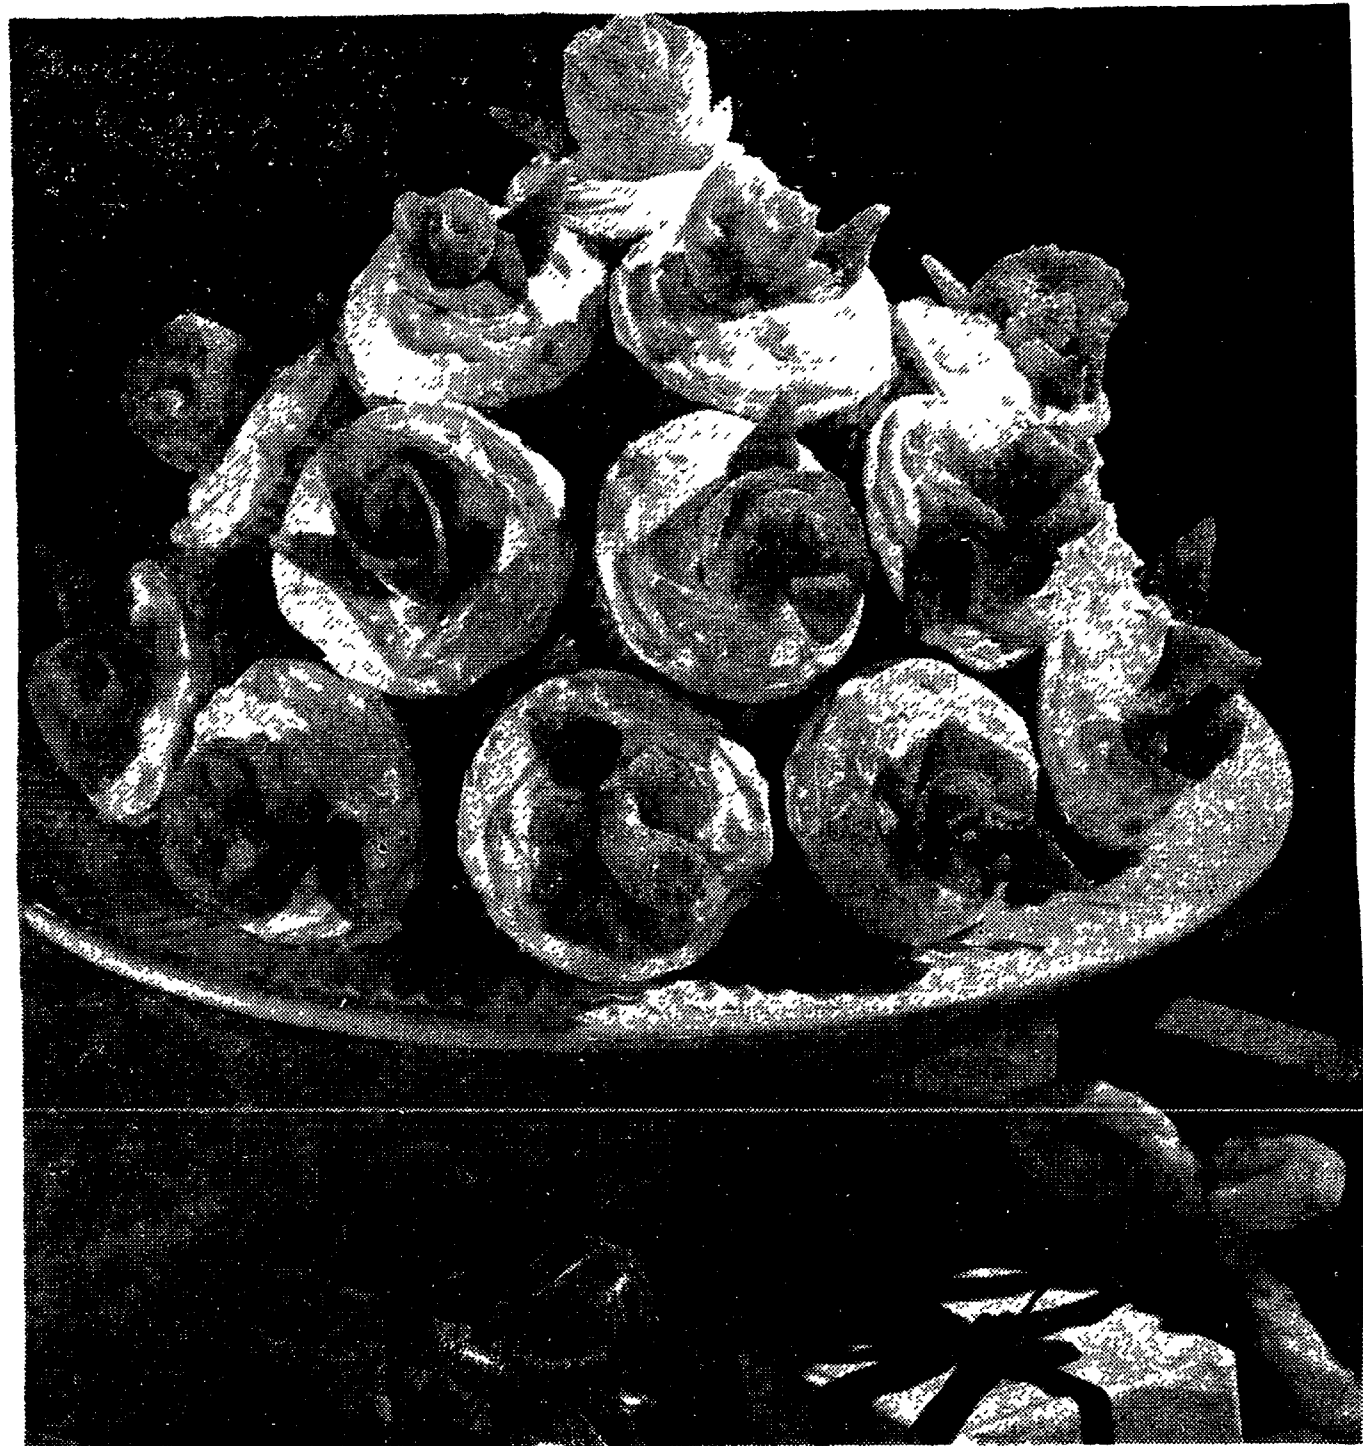

- 1 can refrigerated orange danish rolls with icing
- 14 mandarin orange segments
- ½ teaspoon lemon juice
- Tinted coconut

Separate eight rolls and unroll each to form eight strips. Cut strips in half to form 16 strips. Loosely roll up one strip and place in center third of ungreased cookie sheet.

Attach one strip to center pinwheel of dough to form the "flower stem."

Shape each remaining strip into a loop and insert an orange segment in the center of each. Arrange all but two of the loops around the center pinwheel of dough.

Spring Sunday Dinner Stars New Recipes for Variation

BY MARY-BETH KUESTER Wisconsin Michigan Power Co.

Now that spring is here and summer is not too far distant,

Mary-Beth Kuester

there's a need for fresh, new ideas in menu planning.

Perk up family meals with at least one new recipe a week, even if the family seems to clamor for the old stand-bys.

Missionary Addresses Women's Rally

"Indonesia is a nation that is beginning to read and is eager for literature," Miss Vonnice Morschek, missionary to Indonesia for 15 years and now secretary to the district superintendent of Christian and Missionary Alliance, St. Paul, told women attending the Northeast Wisconsin Women's Missionary Rally Saturday at First Congregational Church, Shiocton. She challenged members to, "Consider other sheep in your life. Have you passed the Word?"

The women were welcomed by Mrs. Louis Tackman, president of the Willing Workers Circle 1. Music selections were included in the program. The Fall Rally will be at Chilton.

Hamburger doesn't have to be a round patty cake — bring it to the table in the form of Swedish meatballs, or little meat loaves baked in muffin tins or a ring mold.

Try a dish with a strange name or dress up vegetables with a new sauce or combine vegetables in a different way.

Here's a spring Sunday dinner to try for members of your family. Company-good, it features a modern version of a traditional Wellington recipe. It's easier than pie if you substitute refrigerated crescent dinner rolls for the pastry wrap. Serve it with tender cauliflower topped with a luscious, crunchy topping. Add a green salad for a cool, crisp touch.

Dessert is simple and elegant. A Raspberry Ribbon Loaf that can be made ahead and refrigerated.

- #### HAM WELLINGTON
- 4 to 5 pound fully cooked boneless ham
 - ½ cup pineapple preserves
 - ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
 - 1 can refrigerated crescent dinner rolls
 - 1 egg white, slightly beaten

Place ham on rack in shallow roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer so bulb reaches center of the thickest part. Combine preserves and nutmeg. Spread mixture over surface of meat, leaving cut side bare. Roast uncovered at 325 degrees as directed on ham label.

Thirty minutes before ham is done, open can of crescent rolls; unroll and separate into triangles. Remove ham from oven. Place seven triangles of dough around bottom edge of ham putting wide end on the bottom and bringing the points to the top. Do not cover cut side with dough. Cut the remaining triangle into small petals and arrange as flowers on crust. Brush dough with beaten egg white. Continue to bake ham until rolls are golden brown.

CRUNCHY CROWNED CAULIFLOWER

- ½ cup all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon garlic salt
- ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 tablespoon parsley flakes
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 1 teaspoon sesame seeds
- 2 tablespoons shortening
- 1 to 3 teaspoons water
- ¼ cup sour cream
- 1 large head cauliflower, cooked whole

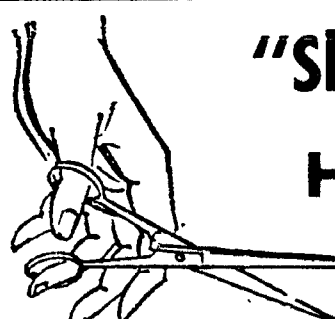

Combine all ingredients except water, sour cream and cauliflower in small mixing bowl. Cut mixture with pastry blender until particles resemble small peas. Sprinkle water, a little at a time, until mixture is just clinging together. Spread sour cream over top of cooked cauliflower and sprinkle with crumbs. Broil on cookie sheet or heat-proof platter for three to five minutes or until crumbs are crisp and crunchy.

RASPBERRY RIBBON LOAF

- 1 package butter cake mix
- 2 cups raspberry preserves
- 2 teaspoons water
- 1½ cups dairy sour cream
- ½ cup light brown sugar, firmly packed

Prepare cake mix as directed on package; bake in a 13 x 9-

Your Problems Writer Recalls How a Parrot Helped Tone Down Her Laugh

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter about the woman with the terrible laugh brought back some 40-year-old memories. I, too, had a laugh that was out of the ordinary, but I never knew it until I was tipped off — by a bird.

Several years ago my husband and I went to the coast to visit my brother and sister-in-law. The first morning we were there I was awakened by the ear-splitting racket of their parrot. He kept screeching, "Ha ha ha he he he ho hee hee ho hee..." I immediately went to my sister-in-law and asked what in the world the screeching was all about.

"Oh," she replied, in her usual low-key manner, "Polly is imitating your laugh." I said, "Do I sound like that?" She answered "Yes. It's a perfect imitation." I couldn't believe it at first, but after a while I had to admit it was true. You can be sure I toned down my laugh considerably after that.

Both my brother and the parrot are gone now but I recall the incident whenever I hear an unusual laugh and I say to myself, "That person should go visit someone who has a parrot." — Former Screecher

Dear Former: Blessings on Polly. She did you a great favor. But you still haven't had the last laugh — read on:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I recently read in your column the letter from the woman who complained because her mother-in-law had a laugh like a rooster. The daughter-in-law found this frightfully embarrassing, especially when they went to the movies. If she will send me her mother-in-law I will send her mine. My husband's mother has not cracked a smile in the 24 years I have known her. I have often thought it very odd that the woman has not heard anything funny since I came into the family.

Please print my letter, Ann, and let's hope the complaining lady sees it. That rooster racket

Landers should be music to her ears. — Grimsville

Dear Grim: Thank you — and cockadoodledoo.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 54 and going with a man 69 years of age. We plan to marry this summer. One thing is holding us up. He wants me to sign a prenuptial agreement which leaves 75 per cent of all his holdings to his three children if he dies before I do. I do not think this is fair, especially since I have not asked him to sign any agreement. I have three children also. I am willing to leave everything I have to him.

If I give this man several years of happiness I think I am entitled to whatever he has. After all, his children are all married and they don't need anything. What is your opinion?

— Not Greedy Just Practical
Dear N.G.: Your offer to leave everything to your husband if you should predecease him is a noble gesture, but an empty one. According to the insurance actuaries, you have another 19 years to go and I'm sorry I can't say the same for him.

State laws vary. I urge you to see a lawyer and learn the facts about a child's legal share of a parent's estate. What concerns me, however, is that you say nothing about your feeling for the man, you speak only of the financial problem.

The whole thing smells like last week's fish.

Want to say "no" to drinking without your buddies putting you down? Get cued in. Write for "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Rearview of Pants

When you tune in on scenes where pants are the feminine idea that there's not a single rearview mirror in town. Most pants look several sizes too small as viewed from the back, or perhaps it's that the hips look several sizes too big.

You would think by now that we girls should have learned how to wear pants. We've been in them for three decades. Furthermore, the variety of styling has increased to a point where a flattering choice is no problem. For instance...

LONG PANTS, in such no-

nonsense fabrics as denim and duck, are cut straight as a uniform of the day, you get the idea that there's not a single rearview mirror in town. Most pants look several sizes too small as viewed from the back, or perhaps it's that the hips look several sizes too big. You would think by now that we girls should have learned how to wear pants. We've been in them for three decades. Furthermore, the variety of styling has increased to a point where a flattering choice is no problem. For instance...

SHORT PANTS range from the boy look with blazer or tunic in haberdasher materials to skirt-pants with wide belts and ruffled shirts in "sissy" cottons. FANCY PANTS, appearing at dusk, are long or midi, skinny or flared out, silky and colorful — beguiling, if before you buy you try in a rearview mirror. (Copyright, 1968)

Pierce, Appleton, and the late Mr. Pierce, has been named National Outstanding Junior Member of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution at its 77th annual Continental Congress April 14-19 in Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Pierce was selected the outstanding junior member of her chapter, the Wisconsin Society and the North Central division, which is comprised of Illinois, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska and Wisconsin.

Basis of Selection
The seven national division finalists were judged on their contributions to DAR and to their communities by Miss Martha Roundtree, television personality and authoress; Fulton Lewis III, radio-commentator, and Hugh O'Brien, stage and movie star.

Mrs. Pierce recently was elected state historian for the Wisconsin Society, DAR. She has served as state conservation chairman and as a member of the bylaws committee. Currently registrar of AhDahWaGam Chapter, Mrs. Pierce has held the positions of regent and vice regent in addition to acting as chairman for many committees.

In 1968, Mrs. Pierce received the Wisconsin Rapids Jayettes' CAROL award for outstanding leadership in the community. She organized a citizenship course for aliens in 1967 and has assisted her husband in teaching classes in the two courses they have given this year.

Urges Citizens' Campaign Against Obscene Literature

What do some cities produce that nearly every community helps consume? Here's a hint: it's the subject to court rulings, newspaper headlines and civic campaigns.

The answer? Obscene literature.

But while a publisher is seeking tales of "offbeat sex with the emphasis on deviation" to fill the volumes of his new line of paperbacks, John J. McKeown is touring the Milwaukee area with a case containing samples of today's already "old line" of hard core pornography.

As president of Citizens for Decent Literature of Greater Milwaukee, Inc. (CDL), Mr. McKeown seeks "to create an awareness among people as to the quantity and nature of obscene literature being distributed today."

Not Censor
Speaking before members of Welcome Wagon Newcomers

464 in 1968 The Ladies' Sunday, Inc.

Club Tuesday, Mr. McKeown emphasized that his organization does not function as a censorship body nor does it advocate or promote the boycotting of stores selling obscene literature. Instead, CDL works with duly constituted authorities to insure the strict enforcement of laws prohibiting obscene literature.

According to Mr. McKeown, hard core pornography first appeared in abundance on the newsstands in the early '50s. Prior to that time, what was considered hard core pornography was innocent by today's standard and relatively difficult to obtain.

Young Become Brainwashed
With the emergence of hard core pornography from its underground world, the use of professional models in magazines and the exercise of a new literary freedom has led to increasingly vivid portrayals of sexual perversions including rape, homosexuality, Lesbianism, incest, sodomy and transvestism.

Who buys pornographic books and magazines?
"The majority of the market is not only comprised of warped minds, but warped minds with money because hard core pornography is not cheap," Mr. McKeown told members. However, he added, a second and more important element purchasing obscene literature are the young and the curious.

"Today's young men and women have become brainwashed with the philosophy that woman is the plaything of man and man the plaything of woman. Impossible and unnatural acts are portrayed so gloriously that the immature mind accepts them as normal behavior," said Mr. McKeown. People with such misguided notions, he continued, have committed much of the crime in our streets.

File Formal Complaint
After showing a film tracing the rise and fall of a bookstore manager dealing in obscene literature, Mr. McKeown urged his listeners to join the fight against smut by filing formal written complaints against specific works with their district attorney. Such action, Mr. McKeown feels, will indicate to authorities that they will have community support in any action they may take.

He added that a community must work to define their standards: for only when they

A Hard Core Pornography display illustrated a discussion by John J. McKeown, president of Citizens for Decent Literature of Greater Milwaukee, who urged Welcome Wagon

Newcomer Club members to join the fight against obscene literature. Above, Mr. McKeown and Mrs. Thomas Etling reviewed the measures a citizen might take.

Steak Select Beef; Chuck Roast, Hamburger, Stew Bargains

When you buy a steak you're choosing a select and limited part of an animal carcass. Starting with a 1,000 pound steer, about 435 pounds of retail cuts end up in the meat counter.

Of this, about 40 pounds are porterhouse, T-bone and club steaks, according to Rosemary Stare, consumer marketing specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

Another 46 pounds is in round steak, 35 pounds in rib roast and 23 pounds in sirloin steak.

USUALLY BEST BUYS
The cuts listed most weeks as best buys — chuck roast and hamburger — are about 100 pounds each from the carcass.

have been violated by a work in its entirety can legal obscenity be established. Complaints formally registered under such circumstances will make it possible for an arrest to be made; and that Mr. McKeown concluded, is "where the real solution lies."

Stew meat is about 55 pounds of each animal.

Besides the chuck and hamburger, beef liver is also a good buy this week and it, like the ground beef, has no waste in cooking. Overall prices of beef have edged up in price slightly from last year but are about the same as last week.

Other protein choices are broiler-fryers and turkey. Broiler-fryers are apt to be featured more often as outdoor cooking comes in. Storage supplies of turkey continue above last year so prices should stay low.

PORK GOOD BUYS
Wholesale pork prices are up slightly but this may not be reflected at the meat counter this week. Pork chops and butt roasts are good values. Prices are or may soon be higher on bacon, smoked and processed meats.

For this time of year strawberries are quite reasonable. The California crop is at its peak so prices stay about the same. Quality is good.

Citrus fruit supplies from Florida are about finished, although fresh grapefruit is still available. It's more expensive, partly because much of the fruit goes for processing so fresh supplies are low. California grapefruit will still come in but Temple and navel oranges are about out of season. Valencias are coming in now.

BRIGHTER LOOK
The fresh vegetable supply looks brighter now with lettuce, radishes, green beans and broccoli considered reasonable. Carrots are probably one of the best buys.

Asparagus may be more expensive this week because the California crop is about finished. In a couple of weeks the Washington and New Jersey crops will be coming in.

Cucumbers and corn prices are down, cabbage and tomatoes remain the same and leaf lettuce and pepper prices are high.

loops to the "stem" to form "leaves." Bake at 400 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes, until golden brown.

Combine icing and lemon juice. Spread on warm coffee-cake. Garnish center with tinted coconut, brown-yellow for a daisy.

CRANBERRY MINI BASKETS

- 1 pkg. yellow cake mix
- 1 tablespoon grated orange peel
- 8 ounces whole berry cranberry sauce
- 1 pkg. vanilla buttercream frosting mix
- 1/2 cup smooth peanut butter
- 1/4 cup milk (about)
- 1 cup flaked coconut
- Green food coloring
- Candied flowers, small gumdrops, colored mints, crumbled peppermint candy
- Pipe cleaners

Prepare yellow cake mix according to package directions, adding orange peel to mix.

Place paper cupcake liners in cupcake pans, then spoon batter into papers filling them about two-thirds full. Bake as directed on package. Cool.

With a sharp knife, cut a cone from the center of the top of each cupcake. Fill hole with some of the cranberry sauce. Replace top of cupcake. Prepare frosting mix as directed on package, but blending in peanut butter and enough milk to make it the proper spreading consistency. Spread frosting on cupcakes.

Tint coconut with green food coloring by sprinkling coconut with a few drops of coloring and shaking in paper bag.

Sprinkle coconut around the outer edge of each cupcake. Fill center with candied flowers, small gumdrops, colored mints, crumbled peppermint candy.

Shape pipe cleaners into handles, covering with small strips of aluminum foil if desired. Push ends of handle into top of each cupcake.

SHOWER MINI-CAKES

- 6 eggs, at room temperature
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 3/4 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/4 cup butter, melted and clarified
- Fruit liqueur and rum
- 1/2 cup strawberry preserves
- 2 tablespoons hot water
- 2 cups confectioners' sugar, sifted
- 1/4 cup warm water

Grease a 9 x 13 baking pan and line bottom with greased, waxed paper.

Place eggs, sugar and vanilla in a warm mixing bowl, beat at high speed, 15 to 20 minutes, until mixture stands in peaks when beater is withdrawn. With a rubber spatula, fold in flour gradually but thoroughly. Fold in cool melted butter in the same way, using only the clear portion.

Turn into prepared pan to depth of one inch. Bake in 350 degree oven 30 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Turn out immediately on cake rack to cool. Remove waxed paper. When cake has cooled, cut half of cake into circles with two inch round cookie cutter. Cut the other half into oblongs, 2 inches by 1 inch.

TO DECORATE: Place cake rack over a foil-lined cookie sheet; then line up petits fours on the rack. Sprinkle rounds with a few drops of fruit-flavored liqueur (cherry, peach, apricot) and bars with rum.

Thin preserves with hot water, mix well, and spread over cake tops.

Stir confectioners sugar with water, until smooth. Spoon over petits fours, covering evenly. Allow to dry completely. If necessary, add a second coating, thinning sugar with a little added water, if it hardens.

When dry, decorate each little cake to resemble a gift package (Use a mixture of 1/4 cup confectioners sugar and 1/4 cup butter and pipe it through a decorating tube — or use the store-bought decorator icing that comes in a tube or pressurized can.) Recipe makes about 20 cakes.

NOSEGAY CUPCAKES

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
- 2 eggs
- 2 cups sifted enriched flour
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/4 cup orange juice
- 1 box (5 1/4 oz.) fluffy white frosting mix, prepared
- Food coloring
- 24 Gumdrop Flowers and Leaves

Cream butter and sugar together until light and fluffy. Blend in vanilla and orange peel. Beat in eggs, one at a time.

Sift together dry ingredients.

Thoroughly blend flour mixture into creamed mixture alternately with milk and orange juice, beginning and ending with flour.

Pour into paper-lined muffin cups, filling two-thirds full. Bake in preheated, 350-degree oven 25 to 30 minutes, or until done.

Remove from pans and cool. Tint prepared frosting with food coloring. Frost cupcakes. Place gumdrop flower and leaf on each cupcake. Invert six-inch diameter bowl on serving plate and frost the bowl with remaining frosting. Arrange cupcakes over frosted bowl, placing close together.

To make gumdrop flowers and leaves: Roll out gumdrops on sugared surface, into thin strips, about seven-inches long and one-inch wide. Coil into rose shape, pinching one side together. Secure with half a toothpick. Roll out green gumdrops and cut into petal shapes.

Testing for Termites Cheaper Than Finding Them Too Late

BY MARY FEELEY

While you're waiting for the first spring buds to sprout, maybe you'd better look around for another sign of spring — termites. Even if you've never given termites a thought, it's well to keep in mind that no house if it contains wood, carpets, or other cellulose materials, is "termite-proof." Sad to report, subterranean or ground-nesting termites cost homeowners millions of dollars every year in repairs and in control measures.

Two reasons why every homeowner ought to be alert to this expensive, "free-loading" insect, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, are (1) the fact that much of the lumber on the market today is from young, second-growth trees which contain large amounts of sapwood, and (2) infestations in buildings have become more common with the general use of central heating plants. Heated basements, which can prolong the period of termite activity, coupled with other changes in building practices and use of construction materials, explain why termites have become a problem in areas where formerly they were of little importance.

Clues to Presence Of Termites

Of course, looking around your property for termites is a losing game if you can't recognize one when you see it. Winged ants, which are often mistaken for termites, come forth in spring, and it's easy to see the two. When you call in an ant

Damage to wood caused by these insects often isn't noticeable on the surface. They can completely honeycomb wooden timbers, leaving little more than a thin shell. Subterranean termites don't reduce the wood to a powdery mass or push wood particles to the outside where your eye could spot the danger. However, one evidence of trouble is the presence of discarded wings — which may be found on the floor beneath doors or windows where the insects have emerged within a house and haven't been able to escape.

Prevention And Its Cost

Every homeowner has enough expense, just for ordinary maintenance, without any special problems. But when you weigh the cost of preventing damage against the jolt of serious repairs, then prevention is pretty cheap. While costs of termite control service vary widely, one expert in this field points out that if damage is located early and the condition kept under control, the cost's not too stiff. A figure around $250 a year should bring the average homeowner peace of mind. Contracts with service companies vary in their coverage, so shop around and compare.

You might also want to read up on the prevention and control of termites. A detailed illustrated bulletin, Home and Garden Bulletin No. 64, put out by the Department of Agriculture, costs 15 cents. You can write to Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Of

15 Bars Lack Licenses; May Close June 30

Appleton City Clerk Says Deadline to Apply Was Monday

Operators of 15 Appleton taverns may find themselves out of business as of midnight, June 30, for failing to apply for license renewals.

City Clerk Elden J. Broehm reported his office received applications for licenses from only 59 of the 74 taverns presently in operation in the city.

The statutory deadline for making license application was Monday, April 15.

Broehm explained the purpose of the law is to allow time for various municipal departments to make annual inspections of tavern premises and facilities.

The 1968-69 licensing year begins July 1. Any establishment not licensed at that time must close.

Broehm said there were unconfirmed reports that some taverns not applying for renewals are going out of business.

Broehm also reported that:

License Available
—A & L Liquor Locker, Inc. recently turned in its class A license, which under local ordinance, will not be re-issued for a 30-day period to allow persons interested to apply. The council's quota for such licenses is 14, based on one for every 3,500 residents.

—Applications for renewal of operators' (bartender) licenses will be due in the clerk's office by April 30. There are now 360 persons in Appleton licensed to tend bar.

—The deadline for taxi-cab companies to make license application is also April 30. Under the law, there will be a hearing on the applications.

Chilton Native Leaves Estate

Value of Will Left By Mrs. Savage Set at $137,400

Mrs. Genevieve Savage, a Chilton native who died in Appleton Nov. 19, left an estate having a gross value of $137,400, according to her will which received final accounting Tuesday in Outagamie County Court Branch 1.

Nearly all of the estate con-dinner at 6:15 p.m. today at the Darboy Club.

Ray Hamann will be program chairman. Members will be asked to volunteer to serve as chaperons for a post-prom party to be held Friday following the high school prom.

Discussion will be held on a coffee house project being supported by the club and a report given on the assistance the club can give the new village hall and library project.

sisted of personal property. Mrs. Savage, who was 81, was born in Chilton but lived most of her life in Milwaukee. She moved to Appleton after the death of her husband, Dr. G. T. Savage, in 1952.

Relatives shared in the estate, with two sisters and a brother receiving the largest single distributive shares. Ethel Reicher, Milwaukee, was named to receive $36,120, while another sister, Ellen F. Foote, with whom Mrs. Savage lived at 328 E. Washington St., Appleton, received $26,440. A brother, Dr. Donald Frawley, Milwaukee, received shares totaling $25,570.

Shares ranging from $780 to $7,215 were left to nieces, Jean Gorman of Piedmont, Calif., Joanne Osten, Peoria, Ill., and Jeanne Foote, whose address was not listed; to a sister-in-law, Ruth Frawley, 721 W. Front St., Appleton; and to nephews, Daniel Frawley, Wausau, Thomas Frawley, 1516 W. Prospect Ave. Appleton, and Patrick Frawley, Madison.

String Quartet to Feature Obscure Work by Webern

An obscure piece for string quartet which may have helped shape a dominant force in 20th century music is among the works to be performed by the Iowa String Quartet at its 8 p.m. concert Monday, in Harper Hall.

Anton Webern's little-known "String Quartet" (1905) is the highlight of the Lawrence Chamber Series program, fourth and last this season by the Iowa ensemble.

It will appear in the company of the "Quartet in A Major," by Juan Crisostomo Arriaga y Balzola; and "Quartet in E-flat Major, Opus 127," by Beethoven.

12-Tone, Serial Techniques
Webern was the retiring, brilliant Viennese practitioner of the 12-tone and serial techniques whose creativity was interrupted in 1945 by his death at the hands of a trigger-happy occupation sentry.

A disciple of Schoenberg and compatriot of Alban Berg, he had broken with the atonal musical past and extended Schoenberg's techniques of composition to include fixed rhythmic and timbre series. He developed, in short, a style of total serialization.

Although his output of 31 published works in 35 years seems, on the surface, to be insignificant, his place in 20th century music is now recognized as one of considerable importance, as evidenced by a tribute from composer Igor Stravinsky, who wrote: "The day of Anton Webern's death should be a day of mourning for any receptive musician. We must hail not only this great composer but also a real hero. Doomed to total failure in a deaf world of ignorance and indifference, he inexorably kept on cutting out his diamonds, his dazzling diamonds, of whose mines he had such a perfect knowledge."

Found in 1962
Within this context is the "String Quartet," undiscovered until 1962. Its existence added a new dimension to our picture of Webern, filling a gap that spread from his earliest days as a student of Schoenberg until his first significant published work, "Five Movements for String Quartet, Opus 5," dating from 1909.

The "String Quartet" consists of a single movement of 15 minutes length. It is characterized by graceful lines, strong rhythms and powerful climaxes, and by the Schoenberg influence of the falling half-step, rising third motive in its melodic structure.

Whether Webern chose to keep it from public scrutiny, or whether its obscurity was accidental has not been answered. It remains, however, an important point of departure for one of the truly remarkable catalogues of this century.

Professional Help Needed For Father Who Beats Child

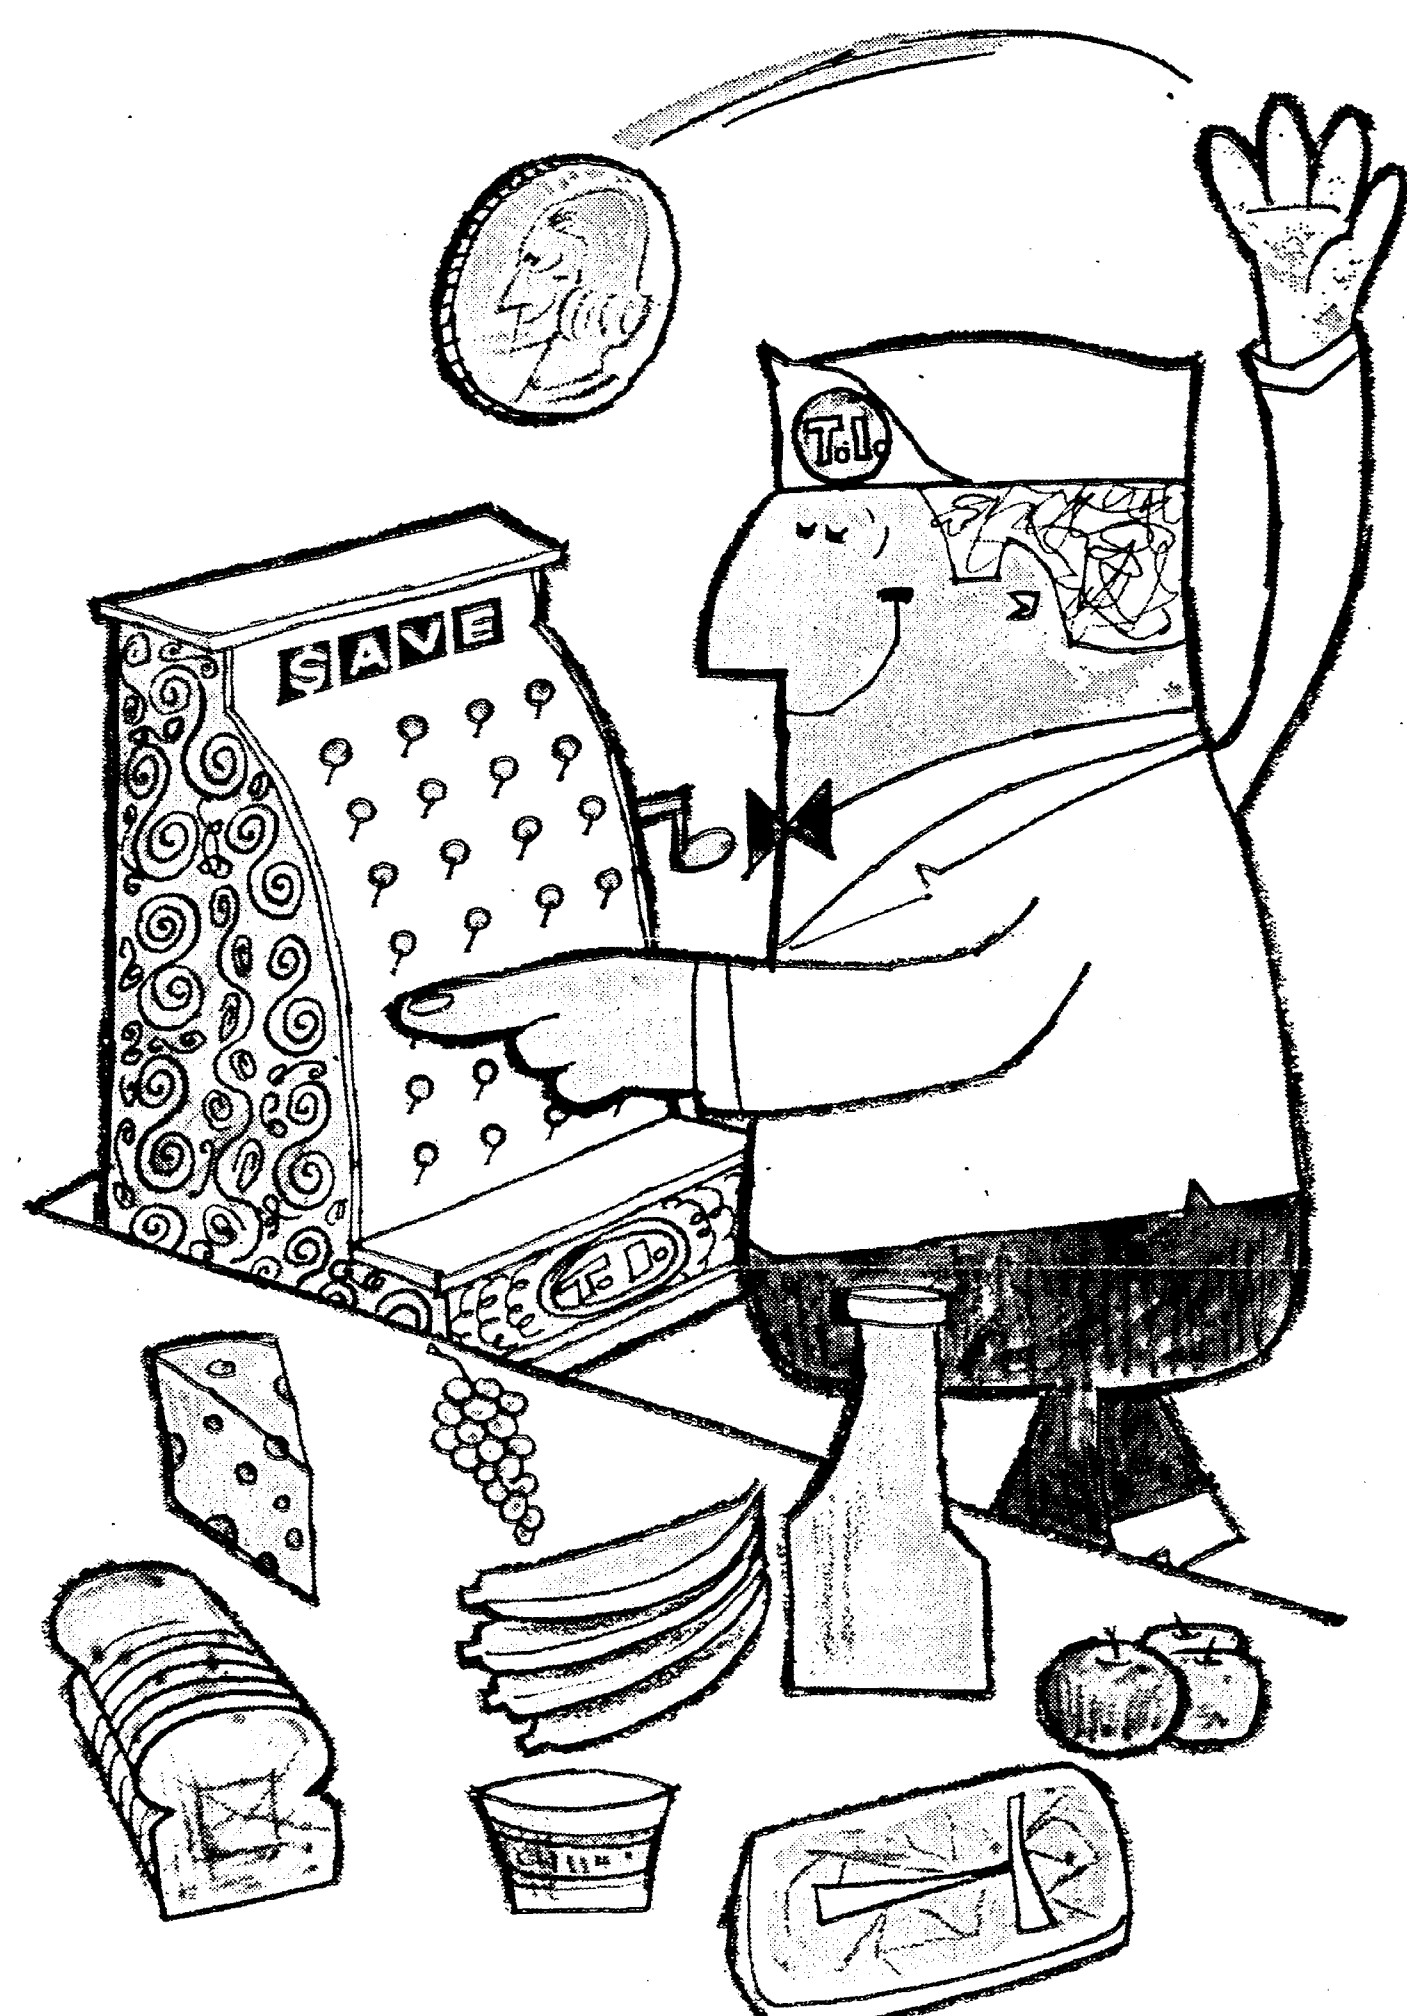

BY DR. EVE JONES
DEAR DR. JONES: My husband says he must instill fear in our 6-year-old daughter or she won't be good. So he spansks her unmercifully for anything. Later, she has become even more violent and unmanageable. I don't know where this will end. He tells her he loves her, but he never talks with her or plays with her. He expects her to be quiet at dinner while he talks with me, and he paddles her if she even taps the table or distracts his attention in any way. MRS. W. W.
 Ask your minister or family physician or other good friend and authority to talk this over with your husband to try to convince him to seek personal psychological counseling. Unfortunately, this kind of person seldom changes or is willing to change. So you must also make certain that he understands that you won't let him continue his behavior.

 Tell him he must not strike your child and that he will have to live elsewhere if he can't control himself. If necessary, ask for help from the police. The law doesn't oblige a man to love his child, but it does require that he refrain from hurting her.
DEAR DR. JONES: I have an 11-year-old boy who has no boyfriends, he plays with girls exclusively, know nothing about sports, and hates any roughness. I believe that his secret desire is to play with girls' toys, but he hasn't yet. I'm completely baffled. MRS. T. N.
 You'll feel more secure and most easily learn whether your son has some serious personality problem if you seek personal psychological examination of your son.
 I'm sending you the name of an agency that will help.
DEAR DR. JONES: You should never make any suggestions until you are sure the parents have first seen their physicians. A lot of the child behavior that parents write to complain about might very well be caused by physical illness. MRS. A. B.
 It would be repetitious to start every answer with, "Before anything else, check with your physician to be certain that no physical ailment is causing your child's behavior."
 Most intelligent parents follow good health procedures and don't need to be reminded to take their children for routine physical examinations or for special medical attention if behavior changes suddenly.

Blind Lottery Ticket Salesmen Jobless When Castro Ends Gambling

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A blind couple has come into exile, explaining that the husband lost his job—selling lottery tickets—in Cuba.
 The Fidel Castro regime recently abolished the national lottery.
 "There are 7,000 blind people in Havana, and a large percentage of them made their living by selling lottery tickets," said Raul Leon Martinez, 43, a recent arrival by refugee airlift. "Now they have no work."
 Leon Martinez and his wife, Yolanda, both blind since birth, said they have not decided what they will do in the United States.

WE DISH UP TOTAL SAVINGS NOT DISHES

The only logical reason we can give you for coming back to Treasure Island Food Department week after week is the savings you make on your weekly grocery order. If we had to depend on giving you a present each week to entice you back to the store, we'd quickly take a long, hard look at ourselves in the mirror. Our policy as food merchants is to sell foods. Of course, Treasure Island also sells dishes . . . and they're reasonably priced, too . . . but you don't have to buy groceries to get dishes at reasonable prices.

Think it over. Isn't it logical? Our customers need no added inducement other than Total Savings for shopping at Treasure Island Food Department. Wouldn't you really rather have Total Savings?

Remember, Total Savings originated under the squiggly roof!

Pamphlet Gives Facts On Bequeathing Body

from the American Medical Association. It is free. Write to Order Department, American Medical Association, 535 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill. 60610.
For the third reader, no, your friend was misinformed. The patient is not charged anything for donated organs.

The problem in the heart transplants did not lie in the surgical transplantation. The difficulty lay in preventing the recipient's body from rejecting it as being foreign tissue — something that did not belong in the recipient's body.
And when drugs powerful enough to stop this rejection mechanism are used, then the recipient may be unable to combat complications of other sorts. That is the real difficulty.

possibly have been inspired by the fact that the removal, testing, and brief preservation of an organ can be a very costly procedure, indeed.

The flurry of newspaper publicity — "flurry" is hardly a strong enough word, is it? — about heart transplants didn't make it adequately clear that these were all in the realm of experimental surgery.

The cost of any one of them would have been prohibitive if the patient had had to pay for it — the teams of surgeons, nurses, and laboratory specialists all were working in the hope of finding out more about the techniques of organ transplants.

Some few parts of the body can be transplanted with great success now. Bone is one which can be extremely useful. The cornea of the eye is another — since blood circulation is slight through the cornea, the trans-

Also, I would like to know, if one has breast cancer and then becomes pregnant, what can happen? Can it harm the mother and baby? I had breast cancer at 26 and had to have a legal abortion, then the hysterectomy later. Please explain. — Mrs. R.K.

When breast cancer is present, pregnancy (because of the increased hormone activity) makes the cancer grow at an increased rate. The abortion, therefore, is to protect the mother's life.

I wouldn't know why you had

NOW A&P IS REALLY IN THE SOUP

(SOUP BUSINESS, THAT IS)

For years, our Ann Page Division has made great soups... but there were only 3: Tomato, Tomato Rice and Cream of Mushroom.

But you know fussy A&P.

If they are going to be called Ann Page, there can't be better soups... and you can't rush perfection.

When you taste our 4 new varieties, you'll agree.

One more thing, all 7 have shiny new green, red and gold labels.

Now that A&P is really in the soup business, shouldn't A&P be your store?

Monbouquette Hurls Yankees To 6-3 Win

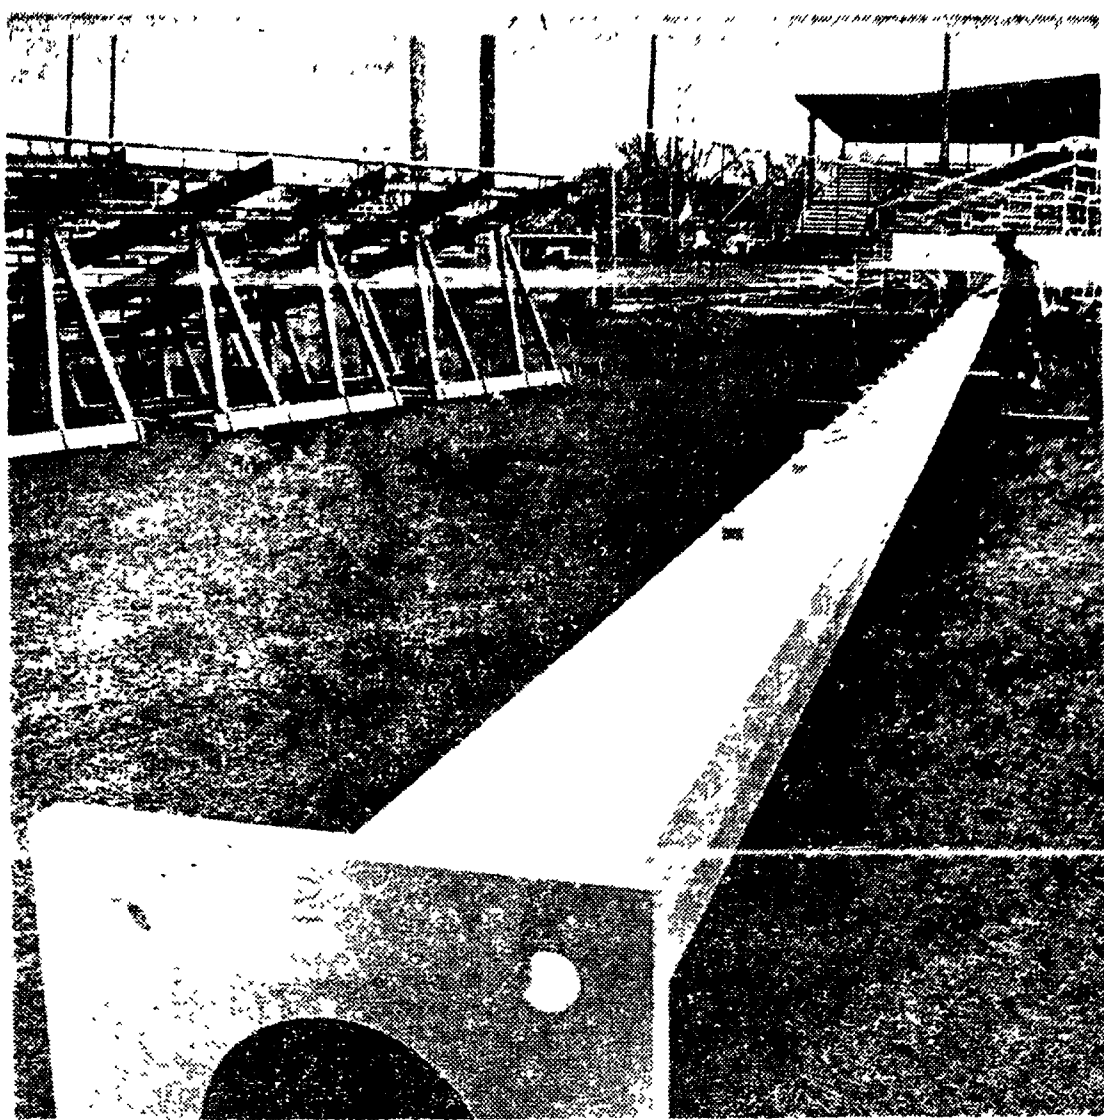

McMullen's Homer Powers Senators Past Angels, 3-1

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bill Monbouquette's smooth finishing touch has gotten the New York Yankees past the next-to-last rough spot on their high road home.

Monbouquette, a wily, 31-year-old craftsman, pitched eight innings of scoreless, two-hit relief Tuesday night as the Yankees cuffed the Oakland Athletics 6-3.

The victory was the fifth in six games on the road for the Yankees, who meet the A's again tonight before returning home for a four-game series against the torrid Detroit Tigers.

South Africa Embittered

IOC Action Pleases Mexico

BAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — The bitter 1968 Olympic controversy that threatened the Summer Games in Mexico City ended Tuesday when South Africa was officially voted out because of its racial policies.

A spokesman for the International Olympic Committee said at least 40 negative votes, four more than the required simple majority, had been received from IOC members, deciding South Africa's fate.

The result reversed an IOC decision by postal vote during the Winter Olympics seven weeks ago to allow South Africa to compete, and expectedly will satisfy some 40 nations who spoke of boycotting the Games if South Africa competed.

Sigh of Relief
Mexico, faced with a crushing financial failure as host to the $86 million Games in October if a widespread boycott took place, breathed a sigh of relief at Tuesday's decision. But it left South Africa embittered.

The Lausanne decision is illegal, immoral and unconstitutional," said Frank Braun, president of the South African Olympic Committee. He called it a "shocking rebuff."

South Africa had promised to field an integrated team that would live and travel together, but protesting countries still complained of her apartheid policy of strict segregation and that Negroes would not receive an equal chance to make the team.

Four Remain Unbeaten in ABC Masters

CINCINNATI (AP) — Only four bowlers remained unbeaten Tuesday in the finals of the American Bowling Congress Masters Tournament.

Jim Stefanich of Joliet, Ill., won over Dale Seavoy of Detroit, 833-822 and Pete Tountas of Tucson, Ariz., whipped Pete Treybig of Houston, 873-858.

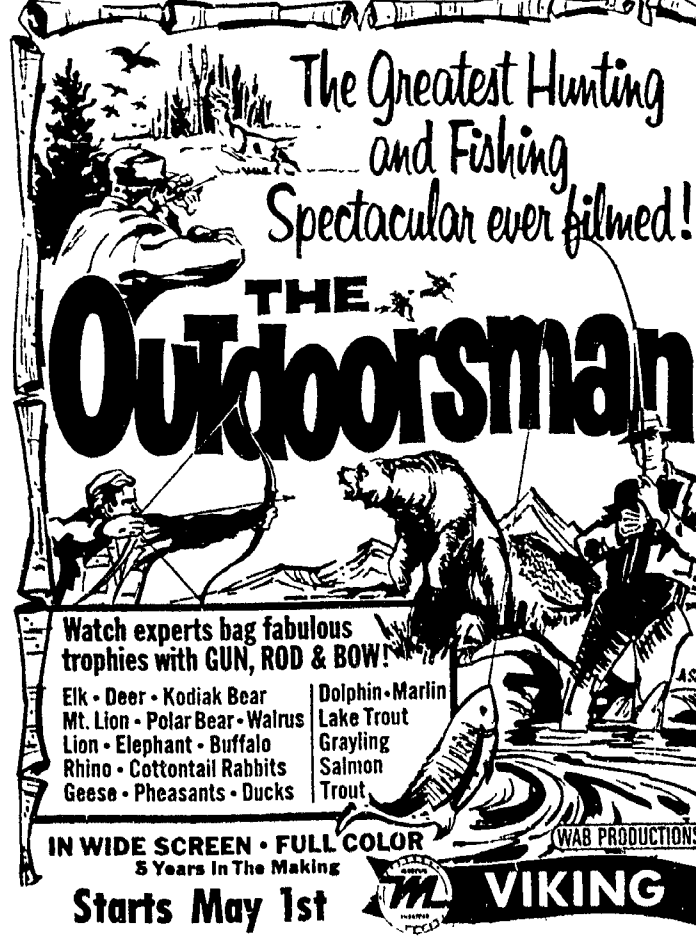

Two Detroiters, Buzz Fazio and Dave Soutar, also won their matches to stay in the winners bracket in the double elimination event.

Ed Schroeder Bows 4-Line Scratch Series of 857

Mrs. Reschke, of Weyauwega, Captures Second Place in Class B of Bowl-O-Rama

BY RON WITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

An Appleton man who rolled the highest scratch series to date in the 1968 tournament, and a Weyauwega woman who zoomed into second place in Class B competition shared the spotlight in Bowl-O-Rama action at 41 Bowi Tuesday night.

Ed Schroeder crashed an 857 scratch series for four games in Men's Class A to surpass the previous high of 849 hit by Lou Youngwirth, Oshkosh, who remains the Class A total pin leader at 889. Schroeder had only a 2-pin per line handicap and finished with an 865 total,

Schroeder was a picture of consistency, as he blasted games of 215, 210, 224 and 208 in that order. He chalked up 24 strikes along the way. Jeff Bonnett of Oshkosh holds the scratch record of 957 pins in the 1966 tourney.

Mrs. "Dede" Raschke took over the Class B second position on the strength of a 686 series and 160 pins handicap for an 846 total. The count ranks 13 pins behind the leader, Elaine Baumgart of Appleton.

Starting slowly, Mrs. Raschke hit a 147 scratch game in her first effort, but then boosted her scores in each succeeding line — winding up with 171, 176, and 192 games.

In addition to the efforts of Schroeder and Mrs. Raschke, four more keggers managed to crack the list of top 10 places in three divisions.

The Women's Class A category saw the most shuffling, as three ladies edged their way into the first 10 high scores. A Chilton native, Therisa Rozman, made the biggest jump up to the No. 4 spot by slamming an 804 total series, including 10 pins handicap.

Bonnie McLaughlin, Omro, finished with a 634 scratch foursome and combined with 148 pins handicap to give her a 782 total, good for seventh place. Neenah's Janice Woehler wound up in eighth place, two pins further back. She authored a 640 scratch set and added 140 pins handicap for a 780 final count.

Dorothy Lausman, Appleton, garnered 10th place in the Class B listings on the strength of a 593 scratch score plus a 192-pin handicap for a 785 mark.

Five squad prizes were handed out instead of the usual four Tuesday night. The fifth came as a result of a tie for the women's high line on the second shift.

Jerry Yach, Appleton, who rapped a 249, and Therisa Rozman, who powered 252, took the gifts for the 7 p.m. shift. Each carried 25-pin handicaps.

The 9 p.m. shift winners included Fred Mix, Neenah, for a 226 singleton (24 pins handicap), plus Kathy Stiebs, Appleton, and Mary Preisler, Neenah, who each fired 215 games (with 46 and 47-pin handicaps, respectively).

Little Chute High's Athletic Program OK'd by Electors

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

LITTLE CHUTE — Electors of Joint School District No. 1 of the village of Little Chute and the Town of Vanden Broek voted Tuesday night to give approval to the action of the school board forming the Public High School's own athletic program, starting this fall.

The vote margin, approving the action of the board which was taken some time ago, was 126-71, with one ballot blank, and one elector listed "abstain."

In addition to the nearly 200 electors who attended the special meeting, a number of other interested persons who were not eligible to vote were on hand as well as a large contingent of students from the community's two high schools.

Advisory Vote
The special meeting was called to discuss the athletic program at the public high school after a petition was circulated through the village. The petition requested a special meeting and an advisory vote by the electors on the athletic program as planned by the school board.

Crux of the problem in the village was that the public school and St. John Catholic High School participated in a joint program the past two years and the teams competed in the Fox Valley Catholic Conference. A 50-50 program, with each school having one major sport (football and basketball) and at least two or three minor sports was proposed by the public school. Costs and revenues would be divided equally.

In a letter from the school board at St. John's, the public school officials were advised that St. John's did not wish to split the sports program, but would continue to operate the entire program and public school athletes would be invited to participate.

4-Year Stature
With the public high school gaining full 4-year stature this fall, board members felt the students should be getting some sports "identity" of their own and since St. John did not wish to split the program, it was voted to join the Central Wisconsin Conference and the school has already been accepted as a member of that league.

Dr. F. X. Van Lieshout, president of the school board at the public school, presided as chairman of the meeting. He filled in background information on the athletic situation.

Leo Bronkalla, superintendent of schools, said the public school officials tried their best to carry out the program as planned.

Several people in the audience questioned the possibility of the

Marichal Hurls Giants to 7-1 Win Over Phils

Cards Tip Reds in 10th; Cubs Rally to Blitz Braves, 10-4

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Juan Marichal moaned and Jim Davenport groaned, but nobody in the San Francisco locker room took them very seriously.

"I don't like to pitch in this cold weather," said Marichal of the 46-degree Philadelphia temperature as if the Giants had lost instead of beating the Phils 7-1 Tuesday night. "It's tough to get loose and you can't sweat very good."

"I didn't figure I hit the grand-slam homer too good," said Davenport. But those four of his five runs batted in for the evening were not quite that easy to shrug off. At least not to the Phils.

Marichal's victory was his third of the season without a defeat. Of his last 80 victories, 79 have been complete games. Philadelphia had 10 hits off Marichal but couldn't do much with them.

Cards Win in 10th
In other National League games, St. Louis beat Cincinnati 4-2 in 10 innings, Chicago crushed Atlanta 10-4 and New York stopped Houston 3-1. Los Angeles and Pittsburgh were rained out.

Davenport's homer was his first of the season and the third, with the bases full, of his career.

Lou Brock's two-run homer in the 10th won for the Cardinals, who were trailing 2-0 going into the ninth. George Culver was hurling a four-hitter but was lifted after a walk and a single. Tony Perez' throwing error opened the gates for the tying runs.

6-Run Fourth
The Cubs erupted for six runs in the fourth inning in a battle between Joe Niekro, the Chicago pitcher, and his brother Phil, who threw for the Braves.

"I didn't exactly outpitch him," said Joe of Phil. "I didn't have great stuff. He struck me out on four good knucklers and he shouldn't do that. He should give his little brother nothing but fastballs down the middle."

The Mets got another fine pitching performance from Jerry Koosman, even though his shutout streak ended at 21 innings. The rookie gave up only four hits and struck out 11. The Mets took advantage of four Astros' errors to score the winning runs.

Chisox' Short Checking on Possible Trade

Stanky, McCraw Not Worried About 9-Loss Streak

CHICAGO (AP) — Just what is there to say when you've lost all nine games of the season and if you don't win before No. 13 you have matched an all-time major league record?

The Chicago White Sox, a hot preseason American League pennant choice, are in this spot. They got a reprieve Tuesday night when their game with the Boston Red Sox was postponed due to cold weather. Their next stop is the opening of a four-game series with the Twins in Minnesota Thursday.

So, what is everybody saying? Sox Manager Eddie Stanky: "I feel like a pro. I'm not on tranquilizers or sleeping pills. I don't need them. I go to bed around 10 p.m. and I feel great when I get up. I haven't lost any weight. I'm still 168 pounds. I'm 48 and feel 38."

General Manager Ed Short: "I've been talking to a couple of clubs about a possible trade since this losing streak began. We are looking for somebody who can get a little wood on the ball. This is the most difficult time of the year to make trades. We are not at the point of panicking."

First baseman Tom McCraw who is in a 1-for-19 batting slump:

"We've had the chewing-out, the let's loosen-up and the have-a-beer routine. That's all a lot of rahrah junk. We just have to guts this one out. There's no sense doing anything rash until our losses hit double figures. Then, I guess, we'll have to try something different."

1,300 Fete Byron Nelson at Dallas Testimonial Banquet

DALLAS (AP) — Byron Nelson got a new automobile and a flood of praise from the men of golf for his contributions to the game at a testimonial dinner Tuesday night.

The tall Texan, who set records in 1945 that probably never will be equalled, also was called outstanding by golf immortal Billy Casper for "his inspiration to golf and to life."

And Ben Hogan, who came along at the same time as Nelson to form the great Texas quartet of golf stars — Hogan, Nelson, Jimmy Demaret and Lloyd Mangrum — said "it is a great tribute, one you well deserve — and I am so happy I had the opportunity to know you."

Jug McSpaden, who was paired with Nelson in his heyday as The Gold Dust Twins because of all the money they earned, also spoke of Nelson as the churchman. "On the tour he would go to church once — sometimes twice — a week," McSpaden recalled.

Nelson won 18 tournaments, 11 in a row, in that great year along at the same time as Nelson to form the great Texas quartet of golf stars — Hogan, Nelson, Jimmy Demaret and Lloyd Mangrum — said "it is a great tribute, one you well deserve — and I am so happy I had the opportunity to know you."

No Announcement Made 3 More Candidates Interviewed at UW

MADISON (AP) — The University of Wisconsin Athletic Board completed interviews Tuesday night of candidates for the head basketball coaching job to be vacated by John Erickson.

No announcement on a successor was made. The final three candidates to appear before the panel were James Harding head basketball coach of La Salle College in Philadelphia, and Erickson's two assistants, John Powless and Dave Brown.

Interviewed Monday night were Earl Lloyd of Detroit, who once played with Syracuse and Detroit in the National Basketball Association, and Head Basketball Coaches Robert Knight of Army, Jack Hartman of Southern Illinois University, and Ray Krzyska of the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

Need Approval
A candidate selected by the board would also have to be approved, in order, by Chancellor William Sewell, President Fred Harvey Harrington and the University Board of Regents.

The board would make the announcement, presumably after polling its members by telephone or by mail. The regents met in regular session only last Friday.

Harding, 39, directed La Salle to a 20-8 record and into the NCAA tournament last season. Harding declined to say whether Wisconsin sought him or whether he applied for the job, which will be vacated May 1 when Erickson assumes the general managership of Milwaukee's new NBA entry.

Wanted Position
But Harding left no doubt he wanted the position.

"It's as fine a coaching job as there is in the country," Harding said. "I'm Big Ten oriented. My goal always has been to be a Big Ten coach."

Prior to taking over at La Salle a year ago, Harding coached at Gannon College, Erie, Pa., for three years and

Little Chute High's Sports Program OK'd

St. John school board reconsidering its action and going ahead with a 50-50 program and each school having a major sport. Some felt that decisions by both boards had been made in too hasty a fashion.

Dr. Van Lieshout, who has opposed the move to a separate athletic program at the public high school, listed his objections which included (1) too small an enrollment at both schools to compete separately, (2) added cost to taxpayers, (3) having to share one playing site and possible conflicting schedules, and (4) the travel distance to member schools in the Central Wisconsin Conference.

Michael Kons, of the public school board, answered these objections with (1) Coach Bill Fitzpatrick has advised the board that there is a sufficient number of boys in the school and he expects at least 40 will be out for football, (2) cost has been projected from the time it was agreed to build the public high school, (3) there should be little problem on dates for use of the football field and (4) the conference which has schools with an enrollment similar to Little Chute's had an opening and there is a possible major realignment of area conferences in the near future.

After better than two hours of discussion, the vote was taken and the unanimous approval resulted.

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers announced Monday the signing of veteran right-handed relief pitcher Dick Radatz for the Toledo farm club in the International League.

A Tiger spokesman said Radatz would report to the Mud Hens at Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday and will be placed on the Toledo restricted list until he is in playing condition.

Want to Avoid Old Blunders Yanks Will Sign Mantle to 3-Year Pact, Says Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The New York Yankees will sign Mickey Mantle to a new three-year contract, Al Abrams, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, reported Tuesday night.

Abrams said the contract also will contain an option that will enable Mantle to remain in the Yankee organization in some capacity for as long as he wishes.

"I received this information, yet to be released, from an unimpeachable source," Abrams said. "The reason behind the move to keep the aging Mantle (he'll be 38 this October) was explained to me this way: 'The Yankees have finally wised up to the fact that they shouldn't fire or drop men who made them great in the past. You know what they did to Casey Stengel, George Weiss, Yogi Berra and Joe DiMaggio...'

"They got rid of Stengel and Weiss with a silly new rule of their own that retirement age should be 65-years-old... Berra was fired after winning a pennant."

"DiMaggio, who should have been a Yankee symbol of all time, was permitted to go with the Oakland Athletics. The same thing happened to Babe Ruth and other greats of the past."

"The Yankees got so much criticism about this in recent years they didn't want the same thing to happen with Mantle. Mickey has agreed to stay on," Abrams quoted his source.

In Oakland, where the Yanks won 6-3 Tuesday night against the Athletics, Mantle was asked if he had signed a contract and replied, "no."

Asked if he had reached any agreement with the Yankees, he replied: "What did I just tell you?"

He said he had not talked to anyone about the matter. Yankee management officials were not available for comment.

New Phoenix Cage Team Hires John Kerr

'Red' Released From Chicago Coaching Pact

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — John "Red" Kerr, hired Tuesday night as coach of Phoenix's new entry in the National Basketball Association, was to arrive here today to confer with team officials.

Kerr, signed to a three-year contract at an undisclosed salary, was released from his coaching contract with the NBA's Chicago Bulls. The pact had another year to run.

Jerry Colangelo, administrative manager of the Phoenix team, said Kerr, Coach-of-the-Year in the NBA for 1966-67, would accompany him to the league's expansion draft in New York May 6-8.

"One of Brightest"

Colangelo, who was with the Bulls' front office until last winter, called Kerr "one of the brightest" coaches in the NBA. "We both went through the expansion draft bit in Chicago and I am certain we will work in harmony to build Phoenix into a first-rate contender," said Colangelo.

Kerr, 35, played 12 years in the NBA, with Syracuse, Philadelphia and Baltimore, after captaining the University of Illinois basketball team.

He holds a league record for having played in 917 consecutive games. Kerr scored 13,413 points during his NBA career.

Cubs Acquire Regan To Help in Bullpen

CHICAGO (AP) — As in the play "Damn Yankees", where it was "whatever Lola wants, Lola gets" so it is with Manager Leo Durocher of the Chicago Cubs.

Two days ago the Cubs were languishing in the National League cellar partly for want of relief pitching help.

Within 24 hours they acquired Jack Lamabe from the St. Louis Cardinals and topped that Tuesday.

Savage Regan

They got Lamabe and followed with getting Regan Tuesday. Along with Regan came outfielder Jim Hickman, who was shuffled off to Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League.

To get Regan, 31, and Hickman, the Cubs gave up veteran outfielder Ted Savage and 23-year-old left-hander Jim Ellis.

Regan was the winning pitcher in both ends of a doubleheader with the New York Mets last Sunday.

Had 14-1 Record

He helped the Dodgers win the National League pennant in 1966 with a 14-1 record and last year he had a 6-9 mark while working in 55 games.

The Dodgers are optioning Ellis to their Spokane club of the PCL.

Savage, 31, has played for Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Chicago. He was in 96 games with the Cubs last year, batted .218 and drove in 33 runs. Currently he is hitting .250 for the Cubs.

Ellis won 11 and lost 11 in Tacoma last year and had an earned run average of 3.15. He was with the Cubs for a brief trial, winning one and losing one, in compiling a 3.18 ERA.

Monbouquette Hurls Yankees To 6-3 Win

the first inning powered the Washington Senators to a 3-1 victory over the California Angels. Three other games were postponed due to bad weather.

San Francisco whipped Philadelphia 7-1, the Chicago Cubs Monbouquette replaced Yankee starter Al Downing, who was making his first appearance of the year, in the second inning.

The Yankees had tagged right-hander Chuck Dobson for four unearned runs in the first inning. The A's countered with three off Downing in the bottom of the first.

Monbouquette, who lost his first start and then beat California 6-1 last Thursday with a route-going five-hitter, retired the first 11 and last 12 A's he faced. He struck out three, walked none and lowered his earned run average to 0.87 in 23 innings' work.

Two walks around an error by shortstop Ted Kubiak set the stage for New York's first inning burst. One run scored on Roy White's sacrifice fly, two more on a double by Bill Robinson and the fourth on a single by Jake Gibbs.

Run-Scoring Hits

Gibbs and Monbouquette rapped run-scoring singles in the sixth, completing the Yanks' attack.

Bert Campaneris' single, doubles by Reggie Jackson and Sal Bando and a sacrifice fly by Mike Hershberger produced the three first inning runs for the A's, who have dropped five straight games.

McMullen's second homer of the season followed first inning singles by Del Unser and Hank Allen and pinned the loss on California southpaw George Brunet. Phil Ortega was the winner for the Senators with sixth inning relief help from Darold Knowles.

The Senators have won five of their last six—all on the road—while the Angels have lost six of eight.

designed by Salvatore!
After years of designing and controlling the quality of America's most famous $95-$145 suits, Salvatore creates the 69.95 suit that should sell for $100.

Salvatore says:
"Our imported fabrics are equal to and many are superior to cloths used in the $100 and up men's suit."

Salvatore says:
"Our styling is as distinctive and forward-looking as the most expensive men's suits in the country."

Salvatore says:
"Seven of the $100 and up men's suit makers use the same inner canvas we have in our $69.95 suit."

Salvatore says:
"There are details in the $100 suit that add to the price without adding to its appearance or life. We put the significant details in our 69.95 suit."

Salvatore says:
"We use the same shoulder pads found in the $100 and up suit."

Salvatore says:
"Our hand-tailored shoulder work is found in suits that sell for $100."

Salvatore says:
"The $100 and up men's suit has the same sleeve-head construction as our suit at 69.95."

Black Hawks Beaten Again

By JOE MOOSHL
CHICAGO (AP) — The Montreal Canadiens are on the threshold of pulling off what could become one of the greatest coups in the annals of hockey.

Their 4-2 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks gave them a 3-0 lead in the best-of-7 series following their four-game sweep over Boston. A victory Thursday night against the Hawks would end the current series and give them the East Division title.

After that, the Canadiens face the expansion winner—St. Louis or Minnesota—for the coveted Stanley Cup and they could defeat the expansion champions in four straight.

Chances are that such an opportunity for a 12-game sweep will never again be presented but the Canadiens aren't thinking about it. Well, not really.

"All we're doing is looking for another win here against Chicago," said Canadian Coach Toe Blake. "Listen, those Hawks are a pretty good club and you just don't go around talking about a four-game sweep against the Black Hawks.

"Certainly, we'll be trying for four straight but four out of seven will suit me," said Blake.

Jean Beliveau, who put the Canadiens ahead at 39 seconds with an unassisted goal, said, "The important thing is to win this series and the fourth game."

The West Division final resumes Thursday night at St. Louis. The best-of-7 series between St. Louis and St. Paul-Minneapolis is tied at 1-1.

Dave Heller Rolls 608 Set

Carole Eckes Tops Hit 'n Miss Loop With 539 Series

Dave Heller rolled a 608 series to set the pace in the Metropolitan Men's League at Sabre Lanes Tuesday night.

A share of the Metropolitan Cup honors went to Jim Ertl with a 225 game and he finished with a 593 series, one pin behind league runnerup Earl Schmidt.

Other top scores included: Jerry Muenster 551, Dave Erdmann 576, Wally Jensen 583, Jimmy Krause 575, Bob Van Dinter 580 and Tom Pawlawczyk 65.

Final Night

On the final night of action in the Hit 'n Miss League at the 4130, Carole Eckes led the way with a 539 series. Ruth Mitchell had high game with a 200 and other leading totals included Mary Ann Wideman 525, Laurie Vander Velden 506, Joyce Sweatt 195, Barbara Roff 190, Joyce George 196, Adeline Hoffmann 515 and Rose Ann Stoehr 519.

Cozy Bar (66-33) won the Hit n Miss championship and the Gay Spot finished second, one game off the pace.

In the Nite-Out League at Sabre Lanes Tuesday, Anita Paris cracked a 190 game and 309 series. Ann Rivet had a 504.

Wednesday night in the Sportsmen's League at Michiels Bowl, Sherwood, Jerry Michiels had a 233 game and Ken Mader rolled a 586 series. Ed Knapp hit a 581 set, Gene Goldschmidt had 560, Ken Kress smacked 558 and high games included Keith Gerow and Denis Runge with 226 each.

Jeanette Wenzel Blasts 246 Line In Couples Loop

Marshall Boldt's 550 series and Jeanette Wenzel's 246 game were the top efforts to come out of a recent meeting of the Cocktail Couples League at H Bowl. Vy Dickrell also hit a 199 singleton.

The "On-the-Rocks" quartet of Vy and Dick Dickrell and Jo and Don Haerl captured first place in the circuit after winning a roll-off last week.

Dick Dickrell cleaned the 5-8-10 split.

Elane Landskron came in with a 134 triplicate series in the Candy Bar Couples loop. Split cleanups were posted by Varge Birling, 5-10, Leone Schmidt, 3-7-9-10; Howie Gloe 3-7-9-10; and Tom Otto, 3-10.

Powerhouse won the league championship.

Marion Won't Play in Legion League This Year

MARION — At a special meeting of Marion Legion Post 198 Monday night, it was decided to give up the Legion baseball program this summer.

According to Tom Schifer, general manager of the program here, it would be practically impossible to carry out a successful season because of the repaving being done at the Marion Athletic Field. The baseball diamond won't be ready to use at least until August so it has been decided that Schider will contact the Fox River Valley Legion League and ask for a year's leave of absence.

LBJ Unsure Communists Are Serious

President Says Contacts Go On Despite Possible 'Ploy' by Hanoi

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has told diplomats the United States is in frequent touch with North Vietnam on the subject of choosing the site for a Vietnam peace talk.

Johnson said he and his advisers do not know whether the North Vietnamese leadership is seriously interested in solving the site problem or whether it has some other purpose in mind. Some officials have suggested Hanoi may be mainly interested in making propaganda.

Johnson discussed the situation as he sees it in an informal talk with diplomats and others at a White House reception Tuesday night. Various versions of what he said were reported.

"We are in contact with them," he was quoted as having said. "We spoke to them yesterday and today, and we will be in contact with them tomorrow. We don't know whether it's a ploy or not."

Working Persistently

Diplomatic authorities confirmed today the sense of what Johnson was saying, without stating his views in precise and quotable language.

The President's points, they said, are that the U.S. government is working persistently to try to solve the site problem. Johnson and his advisers do not know whether the North Vietnamese are serious about solving it, but they will find out.

Diplomatic contacts are reported to have occurred in Vientiane, Laos, where U.S. Ambassador William Sullivan has been in direct touch with North Vietnamese Ambassador Le Van Hien repeatedly since early this month.

Their reported first exchange in the present series was April 4 when Sullivan, on instructions from Johnson, officially notified the North Vietnamese envoy the United States was prepared to "establish contact" on the problem of peace talks as North Vietnam said publicly April 3 it was willing to do.

The exchange began after Johnson limited the bombing of North Vietnam on March 31 and called for talks on ending the war.

The Washington Post, in its account, quoted Johnson as saying:

"We talked today and we talked yesterday. There are some who think that if they were serious they wouldn't have suggested Warsaw" as a site for the initial peace talks.

The Post, in reporting Johnson son said he wasn't positive whether North Vietnam wanted talks, said the President then shrugged "as if he didn't know whether or not to agree."

The North Vietnamese Communist Party newspaper Nhan Dan, meanwhile, accused the United States Tuesday of "perfidious maneuvers" and said the Vietnamese people "demand that the U.S. government stop delaying preliminary contacts and accept either Phnom Penh or Warsaw as the venue."

Nevertheless, talk of Paris as a site for the talks has been increasing, and South Vietnamese Foreign Minister Tran Van Do said in Saigon today his government had no objection to the French capital.

Senators Wrangle Over Firearms Bill

Eastland's Committee Convenes To Find Out Exactly What It Did

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee, some of its members unsure what decision it made on control of firearms sales, is reconsidering President Johnson's anti-crime bill.

Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., called a closed session of the committee for today in an effort to resolve the wrangle that flared after the committee had approved the measure April 4.

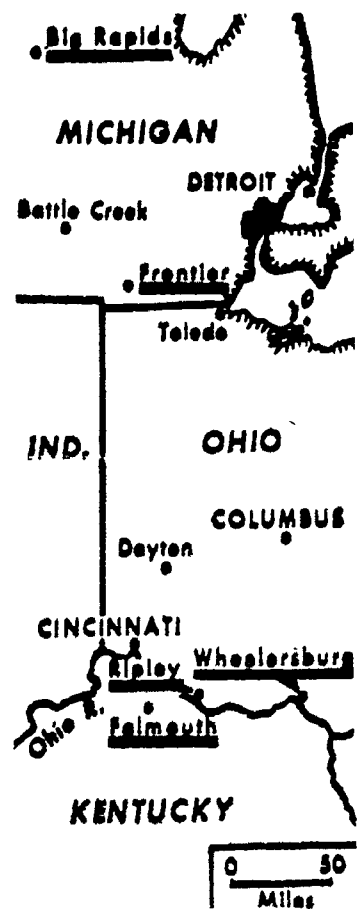

Earlier that same day—and just hours before Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was assassinated by a sniper using a rifle—the panel voted down administration measures to clamp controls on sales of rifles and shot guns.

Still at issue is whether the committee voted to prohibit or merely regulate interstate mail-order sales of handguns.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., contends that under the committee's action April 4, such sales would be banned. But Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., challenged Dodd's interpretation.

The same section also would prohibit importation of military surplus handguns, restrict imports of other weapons and regulate sales of bazookas, mortars and similar devices.

Hruska said Tuesday the draft

Kentucky, Ohio Hit Hardest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tornadoes ripped into small communities in Kentucky and Ohio Tuesday, spreading death and destruction. Twisters also struck two towns in Michigan, causing damage but no deaths.

The count of dead rose to 13. Included were 4 in Falmouth, Ky., 1 near Augusta, Ky., 6 in Wheelersburg, Ohio, 1 in Clermont County, Ohio, and 1 in Brown County, Ohio.

The storms injured 207 persons, left more than 700 homeless and wrought damage in excess of $2 million.

"We were going through a taste of death right there," reported Henry Dance, 77, a Falmouth resident who was at home with his wife.

"It sounded like a clap of thunder," he said, "and then the roof began to fall. Holding on to each other, we fell down by the divan and part of the floor fell on us. The Lord saved us, that's all."

Brunt of Storm

A residential area of about six square blocks bore the brunt of the storm in Falmouth, a community of 2,600 in northern Kentucky. The business section of town was largely spared.

The twister, swirling out of thunderstorms Tuesday, struck at midafternoon at points near the Ohio River.

"We saw the funnel coming," reported Mrs. William Clinger, who works at the Falmouth Outlook, a weekly newspaper. "All of us ran into the basement. There was a horrible noise, like a train coming. Then it hit."

Mrs. Lewis Mockbee, 72, said, "It just began to blow, then the hail came, breaking out windows. I got down into a corner and prayed." The Mockbee home was spared, but a garage was destroyed.

Heavy Damage

Falmouth Mayor Max Goldberg said about one-third of the small farming community was destroyed. He said property damage would run between $2 and $3 million.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn of Kentucky rushed to the scene of devastation. He said quick preliminary estimates show that at least 75 homes "were damaged to the extent of $15,000 each."

The victims were an elderly couple and two small children. More than 100 injuries were reported. At one point Pendleton County Hospital reported it handled so many patients that officials were not even sure of how many had been admitted.

Another Twister

To the east some 125 miles, Wheelersburg reeled under the vicious eye of another twister. The count of injured stood at 75 while rescue workers still crawled over the wreckage of more than 40 homes searching for other victims.

"There's no estimate yet on the number of houses destroyed," said Deputy Sheriff Jesse Foster. "Wreckage is scattered all over. It's really a mess."

The tornado cut a swath through several subdivisions, leveling or damaging houses and business places in its path. Wheelersburg is an unincorporated community eight miles east of Portsmouth, Ohio.

Gov. James A. Rhodes ordered 100 National Guard troops to the area and then flew in himself to inspect the damage.

'30 Houses Level'd

Leroy Collier, a real estate agent who witnessed the twister at work, said he saw it coming and ducked into his car and got down on the floor. "When I looked out the car windows, I Grateful That She's Still Alive, 82-year-old Mrs. Mrs. Hall was standing in a room when the tornado hit where only two walls now remain. The rest of the house was turned into a pile of rubble.

Hanoi Claims Credit for Downing

Latest Loss Hasn't Forced U.S. To Halt Strikes by 5 Other F111s

SAIGON (AP) — No F111s flew against North Vietnam Tuesday, but a U.S. military spokesman in Saigon implied to night that the $6 million, swing-wing fighter-bomber has not been grounded again after its third crash in a month.

"There has been no change in the status of the F111," said the spokesman after a day of rumors and inquiries. He would not elaborate.

In Washington, the Pentagon refused to comment and said any information would have to come from Saigon.

There was no indication whether any F111s were used in the raids on North Vietnam today. Normally reports on the day's air operations would not be given until Thursday.

The third F111 lost on Vietnam duty disappeared Monday night, and North Vietnam claimed today its forces had shot down the plane over Quang Binh, the province just north of the demilitarized zone. It said nothing about the two crewmen.

The U.S. Command said the plane was believed to have crashed in Thailand, but it gave no further information on the plane or the fate of the crew.

The North Vietnamese also claimed to have shot down the F111s which were lost March 28 and March 30. U.S. officers believe the first plane crashed in a remote area of Thailand or Laos, and the wreckage of the second was found in northern Thailand. Its crash was attributed to a capsule of sealing material, mistakenly left by mechanics, that became lodged in the flight controls. The two crew members bailed out and were rescued.

Six F111s arrived at Ta Khli air base in Thailand March 17 and went into combat March 25. They were grounded for 11 days after the crash March 30 and have flown combat missions on about 17 days in all. Two additional F111s were brought in to replace the first two losses.

Other Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps planes were out in force Tuesday to continue bombing highways, barges, gun positions and other targets in the section of North Vietnam left open to air raids by President Johnson's curtailment orders.

U.S. pilots flew 111 missions south of the 19th parallel—44 less than the day before—with

the deepest penetration a strike against a railroad spur 168 miles north of the demilitarized zone. The panhandle area was covered by clouds which prevented damage assessments.

In South Vietnam, the B52s kept up their round-the-clock campaign against the A Shau Valley, an enemy stronghold for two years where intelligence reports indicate preparations may be under way for another big drive.

The eight-engine Stratofortresses flew six missions Tuesday and today against the valley, near the Laotian border, and also attacked targets 25 miles northwest of Kontum City in the central highlands.

Comparatively little ground activity was reported.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported a sharp fight near Quang Tri, capital of South Vietnam's northernmost province. Government troops reported killing 50 enemy soldiers and said three South Vietnamese were killed and 38 wounded.

Five miles southwest of Khe Sanh, in Quang Tri's northwest corner, U.S. air cavalrymen clashed with North Vietnamese in bunkers and reported killing 11 of the enemy. One American was wounded.

Government troops fighting in the Mekong Delta 74 miles southwest of Saigon said they killed 17 Viet Cong soldiers and freed 38 civilians who were being held by the Viet Cong.

Treaty Enters U.N. Assembly

Opposition to Nuclear Ban Discounted by U.S., Russia

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union were reported confident today that they would overcome opposition and win the U.N. General Assembly's approval of the proposed treaty banning the further spread of nuclear weapons.

This word came from informed quarters as the 123-nation assembly gathered to resume its 22nd session, which was suspended last December to permit final negotiations on the treaty by the 17-nation Disarmament Committee in Geneva.

Debate Starts Friday

Debate on the so-called non-proliferation treaty is expected to begin in the assembly's main political committee Friday after work of the session is organized and Mauritius, a former British territory in the Indian Ocean, has been admitted to U.N. membership.

Also on the agenda for the session is the Middle East situation and South Africa's refusal to transfer the administration of Southwest Africa to the United Nations.

Soviet and American sources discounted speculation that opponents of the U.S.-Soviet draft treaty on nonproliferation might be able to sidetrack action until the fall session of the assembly. It was agreed that this idea had substantial backing, but neither of the big powers seemed in the mood for yielding.

Moscow and Washington also appeared to be firm against any major amendments to the draft they worked out privately.

The outlook was that the draft probably would be approved by the assembly, after a long debate, and that by the end of May it would be submitted to governments for ratification.

The United States, the Soviet Union and Britain have agreed that if the treaty is adopted they will give guarantees to non-nuclear countries that they will come to their aid in the event of a nuclear attack.

The main reservations have been advanced by West Germany, Japan, Italy, Romania, Brazil and India. They object partly because they are not sure they will be able to get nuclear materials needed for peaceful uses and because Red China and France will not sign the treaty.

A recent article in the Soviet

newspaper Izvestia suggested that some of the objections were intended to torpedo the treaty by trying to delay action at this assembly session. The article said the "maneuvers were not successful."

U.S.-Soviet Cooperation

The United States was understood to be anxious to have the treaty approved at this time because it could be cited as an example of U.S.-Soviet cooperation during the Vietnam war. It might also be viewed as an encouragement to further cooperation on disarmament.

U.N. observers believe the Soviet attitude is inspired partly by realization that many of the potential nuclear powers are neighbors who might eventually offer a threat to Soviet security. The proposed treaty would bar all non-nuclear countries from acquiring nuclear weapons.

Jack Reilly, the mayor's special events director, said the President's movements were "dependent on his schedule."

George Christian, White House press secretary, said in Washington Tuesday, "I have no information on it. As far as I know, no decision has been made."

President Johnson visited Chicago April 1 for a convention address without a prior announcement. Washington correspondents who accompany the President were aloft before they were informed of their destination.

The $100-a-plate dinner is designed to raise funds for candidates for statewide office.

Chicago Readies for President

CHICAGO (AP) — City officials made arrangements Tuesday for a visit by President Johnson, but later there was uncertainty about whether the chief executive would make the trip today.

An aide to Mayor Richard J. Daley said Tuesday that the President would attend a Democratic fund-raising dinner in Chicago, tonight. Later the aide said there was some doubt the President would attend.

15-Year-Old Girl to Teach At Michigan State in Fall

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Edith Stern, who entered college at the age of 13, has been accepted as a math instructor at Michigan State University. She now is 15.

The teen-ager, who has been called genius since the age of two, chose a graduate assistantship in the math department at Michigan State over offers from "six or seven other very fine schools," said her father, Aaron.

Edith graduates from Florida Atlantic University in August, celebrates her 16th birthday a few days later and then heads for East Lansing in September.

Works on Ph.D.

According to the university, Edith will deliver two-hour algebra lectures twice a week, act as consultant to students and grade tests in addition to taking three graduate courses.

"I hope I'll be able to finish up on my Ph.D. in two years," she said.

"This is a gigantic step she is taking," her father said. "Michigan State has one other genius who has attracted just as much attention as she has

and he will undoubtedly be a new challenge to her."

"It will be interesting; it'll certainly be different," Edith said when she learned that one of her classmates will be Michael Grost, 14-year-old senior in advance mathematics. Grost was admitted to Michigan State at 12.

The Brooklyn-born coed's I.Q. has been tested at anywhere from 154 to 201 depending on the test used.

Dr. John Hocking, director of graduate admissions at MSU who approved the admission of both young scholars, said Grost's intelligence has defied the best attempts to measure it.

The last time Edith attended class with children her own age was in third grade, and her father said college "represented emancipation for her."

Edith learned to read at two, played chess at four, dropped out of junior high school at 12 and was admitted to college at 13.

Mostly Normal

Except during discussions of the fall of the Roman Empire, Freud or trigonometry, Edith appears to be a normal, teenage girl.

Despite the phenomenal speed at which Edith has progressed through life, she says, "I've missed nothing. I comprehend more than most, I suppose, but I'm not sure how much extra I have. I don't know what it would feel like to be in college at your age. This is normal for me."

Outagamie Gets $294,650 FAA Airport Grant

Funds Will Provide For Paving, Lighting Of Taxiways, Land

WASHINGTON — A Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) grant of $294,650 has been approved for the Outagamie County Airport.

The funds will be for the construction and lighting of two parallel taxiways and for reimbursement on land acquisition for airport development and clear zones for safety at the ends of the runways.

County officials said they have not yet received official notification from the FAA spelling out the specific projects.

However, they believed the projects involve the center section of taxiway for the northeast-southwest runway and the taxiway at the northwest end of the northwest-southeast runway. The work would complete the taxiway for the northeast runway and would be the first section on the northwest runway.

The reimbursement on land involves property purchased several years ago, but for which there was insufficient FAA funds available at that time.

Outagamie County's grant was part of $1 million in grants for airport improvement projects in 12 northern Wisconsin counties.

New Beach Will Enhance Hartman Creek State Park

WAUPACA — When the swimming beach at Hartman Creek State Park opens this summer, park attendance is expected to increase sharply and, as a result, Waupaca merchants can expect to realize more economic benefits from the park.

Clyde Smith, supervisor of state parks in the east central district, made the prediction Monday at the annual spring meeting of the Dayton-Farmington Booster Club at Servin's Supper Club.

In addition to the new swimming beach, the park's campground area also will be enlarged. Last year the campground could accommodate 35 camping units and campers spent nearly 6,000 camper days in the park. To show the increased use in the number of campers using the park, Smith said, in 1966, the year the park was opened, campers spent only 1,134 camper days in the park. When completed, the campgrounds will accommodate 100 camping units.

More Visitors
Use of the park for picnicking and fishing also increased greatly last year over the previous year. In 1966 there were 5,362 visitors to the park, while last year this figure jumped to 14,961.

"People who visit the park spend money in the area and the park will be a definite economic asset to the community," Smith said. There are no other state parks in the vicinity and because of this, the park will be visited by many residents of the Fox River valley from the east and Stevens Point and Wisconsin Rapids from the west, Smith said.

Hiking and horseback riding trails are becoming very popular in other state parks and the trails at Hartman Creek Park are expected to have heavy use this coming season. Many people are also becoming interested in bicycle riding trails. Smith said, but did not indicate whether or not one would be developed at the park.

The new swimming beach is being developed on the last lake of a three-lake chain in the park. The lake was drained and work started last fall on the beach, parking areas and a road leading to the beach. All that now remains to be done is seeding of grass in areas joining the beach and parking lots, paving of the lots and road and refilling the lake.

The paving project is expected to cost approximately $30,000 and will be started early in May. Ronald Nelson, park manager, said plans now call for the opening of the beach about July 1. In addition to the paving of the beach road and parking lots, the main road through the campgrounds will also be paved this year.

Smith showed slides which described how the many state parks in Wisconsin were developed and how they are receiving heavier use each year. He said in some, parks in southern Wisconsin, 85 per cent of the visitors are from other states but that in the east-central district, 85 per cent of the visitors are Wisconsin residents.

Veterans Home Authorized to Add 20 Employees

KING — In preparing for the July 1 opening of the new 200-bed nursing care building at the Grand Army Home for Veterans, a staff increase of 20 employees, bringing the total number of employees to 340, has been authorized, according to John Welch, business manager.

The new employees will include nine orderlies, eight kitchen employees and three housekeeping assistants. Applications for the positions are now being taken at the personnel office, Welch said.

The new five-story nursing care building, which is now nearing completion, is the first of several that will be built at the state veterans home.
